JUST PLAIN BISHOP

RT. REV. F. C. HALL
AND "MY LORD"

REQUESTS TERM BE DROPPED

The Bishop of Victoria does not like being addressed or referred to as "My Lord."

In the current issue of the St. Andrew's Church Magazine he says:—Please grant me this request: that the word "Lord" be no more heard on platform or in letter.

The word itself is one of respect for the commission which I hold from the Lord Jesus Himself, but I would rather, and I believe He would rather, that respect for Him was shown in his own simple ways. So please just plain "Bishop" or "Bishop Hall" in the future.

SALE OF TAI PING BUILDING

BIG CITY PROPERTY DEAL

One of the biggest property deals of the year has been completed with the sale of the Tai Ping Building, situated on Queen's Road Central, between the Kowloon Building and Asia Life Building, by Mr. Li Tse-fong, the well known Chinese banker of the Bank of East Asia to Mr. Fox Hau-tak, of Canton.

It is understood that the purchase price was $700,000. The Tai Ping Building, which occupies over 6,000 square feet is otherwise known as Nos. 16, 18 and 18A, Queen's Road Central, and is among the newly-erected cement concrete office buildings in the Colony's main street.

The ground floor premises are occupied by the Prince's Cafe and the Canadian Cafe, while its upper floors are used as offices for many firms, both Chinese and foreign.

Mr. Fox Hau-tak is a familiar figure in commercial life in Canton with large commercial interests in Honam.

BUS ACCIDENT

COLLISION IN NATHAN ROAD

A bus accident, which, fortunately, was not attended by serious casualties, occurred on Nathan Road, opposite the Mongkok Police Station, shortly after 10 a.m. this morning, a Kowloon Tong bus colliding with a Shamshupo vehicle.

SOVIET SABOTAGE ALLEGATIONS

Moscow, April 2.

Mr. Alan Monkhouse and Mr. Charles Nordwall, two of the British employees of Metropolitan Vickers who were arrested by the OGPU and provisionally released, have been formally charged with military and economic espionage, wrecking activities and bribery.

The other four Englishmen, Messrs. Thorton (chief construction engineer), MacDonald, Cushman and Gregory are not mentioned in the charges, but it is now clear that all six will be tried by the Soviet courts.

The British Charge D'Affaires visited the imprisoned men in the presence of M. Vishinsky, the Public Prosecutor, to-day and he stated that all are in normal health.

It is rumoured in Moscow that the staff of the British Embassy is packing, but Reuter is authoritatively informed that there is no foundation for the suggestion that the British diplomatic staff is leaving or is contemplating leaving. The position has not changed.

REPLY TO BRITISH CRITICISM

The leading Moscow newspapers, Izvestia and Pravda, publish scathing editorials in reply to British criticism of the U.S.S.R. in connection with the arrest and detention of the six British engineers.

"This case," says Izvestia, "has called forth a savage wailing from the British imperialist press, which is demanding a rupture of trade and even diplomatic relations."

"Only a demand for war is lacking. The basic thesis of the British imperialist press that any question of the guilt of the British engineers is precluded is largely hysteria. The attempt to impress the world with the conviction that Englishmen are incapable of committing crime is not only contrary to common sense but also to a considerable body of facts recently recorded in British courts."

ENGINEERS' POSITION.

"When signing contracts with our authorities," Izvestia continues, "the British engineers were aware that there existed no special judicial organs for foreigners in the U.S.S.R. Those against whom well-founded charges are found at the preliminary investigation will be prosecuted. If the court finds the charges unproven it will be obliged to set the accused free. If the charges are proven sentence will be executed against the guilty in accordance with law."

"If the British press imagines that the Soviet Government is to be frightened by threats, it little knows the history of the Soviet Union. Threats of a rupture of trade relations are not serious, for our benefits from trade with Britain are no greater than those of the British bourgeoisie."

NOTHING NEW.

"If a number of diaphanous organs go so far as to threaten a rupture of diplomatic relations, we recall to their memory that such relations were severed once before, but the losses therefrom were sustained only by Britain."

"Furthermore," proceeds the paper, "these gentlemen should reflect upon the light these threats throw on British avowals that they are lovers of peace. The instability of the situation in Europe and elsewhere is well known. It is equally well known that the purpose of these British threats is to give a fresh impulse to forces obviously directed in an opposite direction to the preservation of peace."

TIMES LAMPOONED.

Izvestia then directs attention specifically to The Times, which expressed the hope that the U.S.

Government would bear in mind the Moscow case when considering the establishment of relations with the Soviet Union. "Gentlemen,—to utter such profoundly secret thoughts aloud and so crudely is unheard of. Someone may get the idea you are apprehensive of Soviet-American relations as a means of strengthening peace in the Far East."

"And what is to be thought," the paper asks, "of those British circles which speculate as to the possibility of an aggravation of Anglo-Soviet relations giving courage to certain 'friends of peace' in Germany?"

NOT TO BE SCARED.

"The Soviet Union," goes on Izvestia, "will not permit itself to be scared. It values greatly economic and diplomatic relations with Great Britain but will never allow threats to coerce it into actions it considers wrong. In the conflict that has arisen over the arrest of the British engineers the Soviet Union has shown more calm than the British imperialists."

"With goodwill on both sides—and the Soviet Union has proven its goodwill from the very beginning—and taking facts as they are, there exists either the guilt or innocence of the British engineers. The latter's confinement by the O.G.P.U. has been humane and better than imprisonment in the Tower of London was, and it should not influence either trade or political relations between two large countries."

AFRAID OF PUBLICITY.

Pravda declares it is far from being a coincidence that the British diaphanous have failed to show sufficient restraint in awaiting (Continued on Page 7.)

NEW FLIGHT TO FAR EAST

FRENCH AVIATRIX SETS OUT

Brindisi, Apr. 3.

The famous French airwoman, Mlle. Maryse Hiltz, who left Paris on Saturday in an attempt to fly her 300 h.p. Farman-Gnome machine to Japan, via India, Kanton and Shanghai, arrived at Brindisi on Saturday evening and left early yesterday for Aleppo. Mlle. Hiltz has already flown from France to Saigon and from France to Madagascar. She is also the holder of the world's altitude record for women, 32,118 feet.—Reuter.

TENSION IN N. CHINA

CHINWANGTAO BOMBING

AN UNCONFIRMED REPORT

Peking, Apr. 3. Unconfirmed Chinese reports suggest that a situation of extreme tension is developing at Chinwangtao where the Japanese are said to have landed blue-jackets during the week-end. It is also alleged that several Japanese aeroplanes appeared over the Chinese city and dropped a number of bombs, causing no casualties and little material damage.

Further Japanese demonstrations are being carried out, according to Chinese reports, at Shih Ho and Haiyang, which have been subjected to bombardment from Japanese warships lying off the coast and to aerial bombardment.

Preparations are being made in anticipation of a Japanese infantry attack on Shih Ho.—Special.

TERRIFIC AERIAL BOMBARDMENT

Peking, April 3.

Chinese press reports state that Shihmenchai was evacuated by the Chinese troops following a terrific aerial bombardment on Saturday.

It is stated that the Japanese are bombing inside the Great Wall as far as Haiyang, two miles to the north of Chinwangtao, and very near the Kailan mines. Chinese reports also state that Japanese artillery is shelling the Chinese positions on the right bank of the Shih Ho.—Reuter.

RAIN DELAYS THE TEST MATCH

MAY ROB ENGLAND OF VICTORY

Auckland, Apr. 3.

Rain may rob England of what appeared to be the prospect of an easy victory in the Second Test. Rain in the early morning delayed the start. When Mills and Whitelaw at last went out they added eight runs to the overnight total, after which the rain again descended and it was decided to take lunch.—Reuter.

LORING STILL HELD UP

BAD WEATHER IN INDO-CHINA

No further news has been received regarding Mr. Rein y Loring's flight and it is presumed that he is still held up at Thakhet by bad weather which prevents him from crossing the mountains to Hanoi. He is unlikely to take any risks at this stage, his hope of reaching Manila in eleven days having already been destroyed. Very bad weather, along the Indo-China coast is reported.

FALL FROM FIFTH FLOOR

A BROADWAY TRAGEDY

New York, April 2.

Mr. Frank Theodore Hulswit, the well-known public utilities magnate, died to-day ten hours after falling from a fifth floor room in an hotel in Broadway.

He had been President of the American States Securities Corporation since 1926 and of the American Commonwealth Power Corporation since 1927.

He was connected prominently with gas and electric power concerns in Florida, Maine, Ohio and Illinois.—Reuter.

AGUACALIENTE HANDICAP

New York, Apr. 2.

The Aguacaliente Handicap over a mile and a quarter, valued at $850,000, was won to-day by Mr. Norman Church's Gallant Sir, with Waylayer second and Lemon Hills third.—Reuter.

Gallant Sir was favourite at four to three and well justified the popular support.

He came from behind in the home stretch to win by three-quarters of a length and to establish a new track record of 2 minutes 23/5th seconds, beating Phar Lap's 2 minutes 22/5th seconds last year.

Waylayer, at odds of 21/10, beat Lemon Hill, backed at 13/5, by two lengths.—Reuter.

LAND COMMUNISM DEMAND

Bangkok, Apr. 3.

A Royal Decree, countersigned by all Ministers, provides for the dissolution of the Assembly.

A State Council has been appointed which will carry on the government until an election can be held under the new Constitution.

The steps have been taken as the result of strong pressure by a large number of members of the Assembly for the adoption of Communism in the ownership of land.

The majority of the assembly consists of the extremists of the nominated party which effected the revolution in June last year.—Reuter.

CROSS-COUNTRY RACE

Shanghai, April 3.

The annual cross-country race in Shanghai yesterday attracted a strong entry and resulted in a win for Private Gregg, of the East Lancashires.

Gregg completed the six-mile course in record time, recording 31 minutes 47 seconds.

The team championship was gained by the Russian Athletic Association, with the European French Forces team second and the East Lancashires third.

The best packing team was that of the Argyll and Sutherland Highlanders, who got four men home together, occupying twelfth, thirteenth, fourteenth and fifteenth places.

In all there were eighty-seven entrants and a large crowd watched the finish.—Reuter.

FATAL MOTOR MISHAP

LAD RUNS INTO A BUS

A fatal motor mishap occurred yesterday at Yaumati, when Tse Shu-kum, aged 7, was run over by a bus and received injuries from which he died.

The victim is said to have suddenly appeared from under the verandah and got into the way of the vehicle which was travelling in Reclamation Street and approaching the intersection of Public Square Street. The driver was unable to pull up in time.

The lad was rushed to hospital but died on the way.

KOWLOON BURGLARY

JEWELLER'S SHOP

A large haul of jewellery and watches, stated by the proprietors to be worth over $3,000, was secured by burglars in a raid they made during the week-end on the branch store of the Salon de Modes at No. 7, Hankow Road, Kowloon.

The latest robbery like its predecessors, was extremely daring, the store being one situated in a quite open locality directly opposite the Kowloon Hotel. The robbers were undeterred by the lights left burning in the store and by the uncurtained windows.

SELECTIVE TASTE.

An inch-thick bar, one of six protecting a window was sawn through and gave access from a side lane for a small-sized individual. Thereafter it was a comparatively simple matter to break into the front room, the store itself, and in which the main stock comprising jewellery and watches, were kept.

According to the Manager, who was interviewed by a Telegraph reporter this morning, the thieves must have been persons of discrimination, for they took only the two most valuable jade rings from a number of others. A tray of wrist watches, on the other hand, was cleared in its entirety. The empty case was found discarded in a backroom as well as the wads in which the jade rings were kept.

BAR SAWED THROUGH.

The iron bar, in the opinion of the Manager, must have offered a serious proposition to the burglars, who must have been held up for a considerable time in sawing it through.

The stolen goods were not insured. A check is being taken to ascertain if other goods are missing.

It is learned that two of the stolen watches were traced to a pawnshop this morning by C.I.D. investigators.

FULL NAVAL HONOURS

BERWICK RATING'S DEATH

Full naval honours were accorded Leading Seaman Patrick Hourihane, of H. M. S. Berwick, whose death occurred yesterday in the Royal Naval Hospital, the funeral taking place this morning in the Roman Catholic cemetery, Happy Valley.

The deceased was taken to hospital suffering from pneumonia, to which he succumbed. He was a very popular figure on the Berwick, and his death came as a sad blow to his many friends.

The Roman Catholic chaplain of H. M. S. Berwick officiated at the graveside.

A parade of his colleagues from H. M. S. Berwick accompanied the funeral, while the band of the Berwick marched at the head of the procession.

HUSBAND "WANTED" BY POLICE

The police are searching for a labourer, husband of Lam Kiu, aged 32, when he is alleged to have grievously injured in an altercation over domestic matters yesterday at Yaumati.

Yip Ling, 60-year-old watchman, who is said to have interfered, was also attacked, it is alleged, by the same man with a chopper.

Ruffles Lend Springlike Touch.

Hollywood.
Modified Letty Lynton ruffles and plain necklines give a light, springlike look to new evening things the stars are wearing.

At the Mayfair Club party at the Hotel Biltmore in Los Angeles, Lois Wilson wore a very becoming white dress, with triple ruffles around the armholes, giving a dressy look to her shoulders, and no jewelry except a handsome little circular diamond clip right in front. It was the new off-the-floor length, a favourite for dancing.

Lillian Harvey, British star, wore a white crepe dress with beaded bodice and a single, flaring, graduated ruffle of the beaded crepe over each shoulder. It had a deep V in the back, and also in the front.

Seeing Stars

Other smart evening dresses seen on stars recently include: "Joan Crawford, dancing with Doug Fairbanks, Jr., at the Coconut Grove wearing a white dull crepe dress with little bows of the same material around its shoulders and armholes, and down the skirt, too.

Anita Louise dancing at the Coconut Grove with John Farrow, wearing a hyacinth blue taffeta gown. The skirt flared at the bottom, and below a molded hipline, and was decorated with swirls of blistered silk ribbon of the same shade. For a wrap she wore an old rose cape which was quite short.

Sandra Shaw, dining at the Brown Derby with Bruce Cabot, wearing a white evening gown, high in front and cut to the waist in the back, and topped by a very short white coat that had enormous leg-o-mutton sleeves.

THE WRONG TOUCH.

Emphasise Your Good Points.

Many women who expend a considerable amount of time and thought upon their make-up and general appearance, lose half the effect they intend to convey simply as a result of making mistakes in the important art of emphasis. Either they completely overlook their best features, with the result that other people overlook them also. Or else they draw attention to those amongst their characteristics which least deserve attention.

I quite recently came across a striking instance of both these errors in the same woman. She was extremely well built and graceful with but two ugly features—her wrists. It seemed by some very odd perversity, therefore, that she chose to wear bracelets on both arms.

These drew attention at once to the lack of beauty they adorned, while had she been wise enough to dismiss bracelets from her jewel case the thickness of her wrists would, no doubt, have passed unnoticed.

Her other mistake—the mistake of omission—lay in her eyebrows. These were in themselves perfect. They had obviously been plucked, yet they were narrow and tended upwards towards the temples in a manner which many of us these days are striving, artificially, to emulate.

But they were too pale to be really striking and they had not been darkened. So this woman who was extremely well groomed, and obviously spared no consideration on her appearance had created a bad effect and neglected a good one, simply by again neglecting to study emphasis. If she

Errors of this sort are to be seen every day. Women with pale eyes make up their lashes so thickly that they stand out in little dark spikes very startling by contrast when obviously they should be darkened lightly and unobtrusively.

Women with narrow foreheads try to make their eyebrows too emphatic, thus making the forehead look narrower than ever. Ears, very often, that have nothing to commend them, are hung with earrings rich and strange, throat that are a little too big or a little too wrinkled on a little too yellow are draped in very conspicuous beads, and hands whose fingers, being short and fat, are the despair of their owners find themselves heavily bejeweled and their nails varnished to scarlet.

It is with hands that the most frequent mistakes are made. Long, well-shaped hands and fingers are improved by a few rings, and, if necessary, a rather startling manicure. But a hand that is a victim of chilblains should have no rings beyond a wedding or engagement ring. And the nails should be well manicured but very discreetly so!

Now that "Beauty Spot" eye veils are popular we have a chance of seeing how very becoming a beauty spot is. There is nothing like it for emphasizing a good feature, and there is absolutely no reason why a small velvet beauty spot should not always be worn. Good eyes are a thousand times enhanced by an adornment of this kind as is also a well-shaped mouth. Also, a beauty-spot placed beside either of these two features tends to draw the attention away from the nose. A boon to many women, no doubt, as the nose is by common repute, the most common "bad" feature!—Honor E. M. Wyatt.

GLORIFYING YOURSELF.

By Alicia Hart

No utterly fatigued woman can look beautiful. Yet only one woman out of a hundred, or even more, knows how to save herself from getting strained, tired and even cross-looking.

It requires an intelligent program to manage to salvage some peace of mind from a hard day's work, either at home or the office or store.

One place where business women make a big mistake is in lunching with someone every single noon.

If it is someone interesting, preferably of the opposite sex, then it seems to work out better. If it is just anyone about the office or about town who happens to come along or phone or ask you, then it is a mistake.

Lunch alone. Read a good magazine. Read the papers. Relax and just think—it can be done with a little practice.

When you have a given time in which to lunch, there is bound to be strain in trying to meet a friend, have time enough to talk and still get back in time.

If you can take a leisurely lunch period, time enough to wash up, make up, and saunter out, order and eat in unhurried manner and relax perfectly, you will be so much more rested, so much more amiable and so much better looking in the afternoon, that it is worth considering.

Nothing fatigues you more than a bore, and particularly at mealtime. Nothing is harder on the nerves than a heated foursome at lunch where everybody talks at once, where you get all on edge trying to get your say. The "business at lunch" habit is perhaps one of the most disastrous to placid living that we have. And it is strictly an American evil. Foreigners never dash about, trying to meet business appointments and solve problems while they eat.

Why not begin taking luncheon by yourself for a week to try things out? If you don't feel more relaxed, if you don't actually look better and have more pep, then I am mistaken.

This smart kid shoe has the dressmaker touch of stitching and buttons so popular on sheer woolen dresses. Its comfort is insured by its material—kid—and by its medium height heel.

JUVENILE HAWKING
NUISANCE.MAGISTRATE SUGGESTS
CANING "ON THE SPOT"

An effective method of stopping the nuisance caused by juveniles hawking newspapers in the streets, was suggested by Mr. Wynne-Jones in the Central Police Court on Saturday when he dealt with the weekly batch of offenders. There were 21 in all. Those over 14 years of age were fined $1 or two strokes with the cane, while the remainder were generally cautioned.

"What I think would be the most effective way," remarked his Worship, "although it probably could not be done, is for me to go out with you, Inspector Carey, armed with a cane, and thrash these lads on the spot."

Sub-Inspector Carey mentioned the Police were being bombarded with complaints. "The P.M.G. is grumbling about these pests outside the main door of the Post Office," he said. "The other day, a Chinese civilian slapped two of the boys."

"Anything known about these shrimps?" asked Mr. Wynne-Jones in dealing with the first batch. "They are a fresh bag, eh?"

One of the older lads said he had run away from his home in the country because his father caned him so much. "I think you had better try two of our strokes, and see how you like them," Mr. Wynne-Jones remarked waving a warning cane in his hand.

To the third bunch of lads, Mr. Wynne-Jones held the cane up, stating "I have a big Sergeant here, and I am going to let him loose on you the next time."

SPOTLIGHT

CHAPTER XLII

Dick and Sheila followed Dorothy to the curb and saw her into her car. Dorothy knew Dick wanted to talk to Sheila alone and did not press her invitation that they should come with her. After a few moments' banter Dorothy said good-night and the huge limousine disappeared silently around the corner.

Sheila watched almost wistfully. Was it fair that she and Eve and Tillie and dozens of others had to toll for every cent they owned when some girls had so much and did nothing to deserve it? Not that Sheila begrudged Dorothy Trevor her fortune. Nor did she ordinarily bewail her own fate. Tonight, however, Sheila was tired. It seemed unfair that this other girl should have everything in the world to make for happiness while Sheila herself must toil and save and sacrifice. No, it didn't seem fair.

Standing beside Dick in the quiet street, Sheila said none of these things. "It was he who finally broke the silence!" "Would you like a taxi," he asked, "or shall we take the bus? I don't think it will be crowded at this hour. Wonderful car Dorothy has, don't you think so?" "It's marvelous," Sheila agreed. "Foreign, isn't it? I've never seen one like it."

Dick told her the car bore a French trade name and was extremely expensive. "The whole family thinks it's shocking the way that kid spends money," he went on. "But after all it's hers. I guess she has the right to do as she pleases with it."

They started walking slowly toward Fifth Avenue. The street was almost deserted except for a few pedestrians. Now and then a taxicab rolled past and in the distance a lumbering bus was disappearing.

"Does Dorothy have lots of money?" Sheila asked. "I know she's considered one of Henri's best customers."

Dick nodded. "Oh, yes, she has money, all right. More than she can spend. It's all in her own name, too. Her father was Warren Trevor. Maybe you've heard of him. Built up an enormous fortune on Wall Street and died while he was still comparatively young. He left the entire fortune to Dorothy."

"She doesn't seem a bit of a snob," mused Sheila.

"Oh, she's not," Dick spoke loyally. His cousin, for all their playful quarrelling during the evening, occupied a warm spot in his heart. "She isn't in the least bit snobbish. Why should she be? She's always had money and doesn't think anything about it. Dorothy's a little thoroughbred."

"Well, I like her," Sheila agreed. "She's different from anyone I've ever met and I like the way she does things. She's pretty, too. Money hasn't spoiled her."

They boarded a bus and presently were skirting the north boundary of Central Park. The little pond on which sailors continue their aquatic propensities while on shore leave twinkled back at them. Here and there a tiny rowboat rocked on the rippling water.

They reached Riverside Drive, the great bus lumbering on and roaring as it went. Jersey lay girdled with lights across the stretch of the Hudson.

"I like your river better than this one," Sheila said impulsively. The silence had grown tense. Dick seemed to be on the verge of some sort of declaration and Sheila was afraid to hear it.

"My river? Thank you. I like it better, too."

The bus clattered into upper Broadway. Cruising taxis, a strolling couple or two were the only signs of life here. The bus dipped into the hollow of 157th Street, rose again with the Heights and halted with a jerk in the 170's. Sheila rose and clambered down the steps, followed by Dick.

They walked down the street toward the apartment building where the Sampers made their home.

"What are you planning to do this fall?" Dick asked carelessly. "Will you go on the road again?"

Now they were on the doorstep of the building. "I don't know," Sheila hesitated. "I may. The job at Henri's is temporary, of course. Trevor got it for me, by the way, in case you didn't guess it. It's seasonal work, though."

and Henri won't need me very long. I hope I get a part in a show soon."

"Do you still dislike the idea of playing on Broadway?" asked Dick without meeting the girl's eyes.

Sheila glanced away hastily. "I don't know. Beggars can't be choosers. I mean," she went on quickly, "that show business is like everything else. It's in a bad way now. Everybody has to take what they can get and I'll have to do the same."

"There's always Mandrake," Dick suggested thoughtfully. "I doubt if he'd give me anything now."

Sheila's voice was lifeless and Dick did not pursue the subject further. He had not seen Mandrake for weeks. Perhaps it was true that the producer's interest in Sheila had waned. She had declined to appear on Broadway in a part, other talented dancers would have clamored for. Mandrake might have decided to waste no further thought on her, considering her too temperamental. Still there was a chance that something could be done. Dick decided privately to call on Mandrake casually some day soon and find out. It could do no harm and it might help Sheila.

"If Mandrake had a good part I think he'd give it to Frances Barton," the girl added.

"But she's not such a wonderful dancer."

"She's very good, Dick, as a matter of fact. And she's built up a name for herself."

That was what so many veterans of the stage had told Sheila she should do. Stay in New York instead of going on the road. With a part for herself in a Broadway show where the critics would see her. That was the way to success on the stage. It would mean better parts and a higher salary for her, McKee, the comedian in the "Heigh-ho" company, had told her that. Others had said that same thing and Sheila, sure that she knew what she wanted and that it was not Broadway fame, had refused, to listen.

She and Dick parted without making any definite arrangements to meet again. Somehow this hurt Sheila. She knew that she had treated Dick badly. Still to have him appear neglectful was a blow.

In her own room, evading the questions of the sharp-eyed Eve who had slid into bed a few moments earlier, Sheila undressed and reflected on all this. It was probably true that Dick was treating her exactly as she deserved. Then, too, the date with him tonight had not really been a date at all. Dorothy had arranged it and Dick had been helpless to escape.

Brushing her hair, dabbing her face with cream to cleanse it, bathing her tired body in hot water, Sheila was at last ready for bed. Eve's bright, bird-like eyes looked up at her from across the room.

"Anything wrong, Sheila?" she asked sympathetically.

"No. Go to sleep like a good child!"

A wave of fires followed the path of a blizzard across America, adding to the weather's toll of death and suffering and painting many such desolate pictures as this one. Flames, water and sub-zero temperature combined to make this Chicago apartment a replica of an iceberg.

New rules for Russian national behaviour were fixed while this group—the third session of the Central Executive Committee—met in Moscow. It was during the sitting that it became known 40,000 Cossacks from around the fertile Black Sea area were ordered to mines and lumber camps "near the Arctic Circle." And it was during this sitting that Molotov and Stalin signed the "fixed farm produce tax" to encourage peasants to grow grain surpluses. In the picture are (left to right) Kaganowich; Stalis; Molotov; Musabecov; and Chervyakov.

DEATH OF LORD CHELMSFORD

NOTED BRITISH DIPLOMAT AND STATESMAN

London, Apr. 2. The death has occurred of Viscount Frederic John Napier Thesiger, 1st Viscount of Chelmsford, the famous Indian Constitutional Reformer, and one time First Lord of the Admiralty.—Reuter.

Frederic John Napier Thesiger, the son of Baron Chelmsford, was born in 1868, and educated at Winchester and Magdalen. A Fellow of all Souls from 1892 to 1899, he was called to the Bar and then served for a time on the London School Board and London County Council.

After succeeding to the title, he was in 1905 appointed by the Conservatives as Governor of Queensland, and on completing his term there the Liberal Government made him Governor of New South Wales in 1909. In both these posts he was very popular.

Appointed Viceroy. During the war he went out to India as officer in a Territorial Battalion and had been there over a year when in April 1916 he was appointed Viceroy of India. He held office during a very difficult time, but he left behind him the famous Montagu-Chelmsford Report, published in 1918, upon which the Reform Act of the following year was founded.

In view of the calls which had been made on India's patriotism during the war, it was felt that the time had come to assert India's claim. On the initiative of Mr. Besant, Tilak, and others, a scheme was put forward which subjected the executive officials to the orders of an elected legislative body. This was adopted by the National Congress and the Moslem League and was known as the Congress-League scheme. Mrs. Besant's activities led to her being ordered to leave Madras and not to address meetings—a step which was regarded as the beginning of a policy of repression. Meanwhile the Viceroy had appointed the Sadler Commission to report on education and at the end of 1916 had submitted a reform scheme to the Cabinet.

But it was not until the end of August, 1917, that Mr. Montagu, the Secretary for India, announced the Government's policy, which was to increase the association of Indians in every branch of the administration and gradually develop self-governing institutions. In the winter Montagu visited India and as a result the scheme was adopted. It pronounced against the Congress-League proposals, but suggested that decentralisation should be carried out by transferring certain subjects to be dealt with by the provincial Governments, while others were for the present to be reserved for the central executive. This plan came to be known as the "Dyarchy." After the armistice the agitation, however, began again, the extremists rejecting the plan and demanding full provincial autonomy. The Rowlatt Bill dealing with sedition received the Viceroy's assent, and this led to the starting by Gandhi of a passive resistance campaign.

Services Rewarded. When the "Dyarchy" became law in 1919, the National Congress condemned it, and demanded the Viceroy's recall. On April 2, 1921, exactly twelve years ago, Lord Chelmsford handed over the Vice-Royalty to Lord Reading after a term during which he had shown much courage, patience and devotion to duty. His era saw India started on the road to self-government. In recognition of

HOLY YEAR OPENS.

MEDIAEVAL SPLENDOR OF SOLEMN CEREMONY

Vatican City, Apr. 1. The solemn opening of the Holy Year, commemorating the Crucifixion, was carried out by His Holiness the Pope in an atmosphere of mediaeval splendour, surrounded by Cardinals, Prelates, Ambassadors and Ministers accredited to his Court.

Striking three times with a golden hammer on the Holy Door of St. Peter's, the Pope, attired in a gorgeous mantle of white silk and gold, demanded admission to the Church, while the bells of St. Peter's pealed the holiday.

Slowly the door began to move, and the Pope, holding a lighted candle in his right hand, stepped over the threshold. His Holiness was the first to enter St. Peter's in the Holy Year.

The Cardinals, Bishops and Monsignori followed, each kissing the threshold as they passed. The Pope then turned to the crowd which thronged into the Church, and imparted the Apostolic Blessing.—Reuter.

Vatican City, Apr. 2. The lighting of a huge steel cross on the summit of Mount Senario, near Florence, by the Pope pressing a button in his study, concluded the celebration of the inauguration of the Holy Year.

The Pope in pressing the button directed a wireless wave to the top of the mountain, illuminating the cross, which lit up the six surrounding provinces.—Reuter Special.

his services in India he was made a Viscount.

In 1923 he was Chairman of the statutory commission appointed to carry out in Oxford the recommendations of the Royal Commission on the Universities of Oxford and Cambridge. Next year, after having received appointments from the Conservatives and the Liberals, Lord Chelmsford, who said he was not a politician, accepted the post of First Lord of the Admiralty in the short-lived Labour Government. In June, 1926, he aroused surprise by undertaking the duties of Agent-General in London for New South Wales, the appointment being offered by the famous Lang Government. He relinquished the post in 1928, and became Chairman of the Miners' Welfare Fund, which awards ten University Scholarships annually.

In 1930 he was appointed Warden of Winchester College, a pleasant scholastic sinecure, while in July, 1932, he was made Warden of All Souls, Oxford. He was also an Honorary Fellow of Magdalen College and an honorary D.C.L. of the University.

He married, in 1894, the Hon. Frances Charlotte Guest, G.B.E., daughter of the First Baron of Wimborne, and is survived by four daughters and one son, the Hon. A. C. G. Thesiger, who is heir to the title.

LIGHT BLUES WIN.

Tenth Successive Triumph in Boat Race.

EVENT DESCRIBED.

London, Apr. 1. For the tenth year in succession, this setting a record, Cambridge won the annual Varsity boat race, defeating Oxford by two lengths and a quarter. The official time was 20 mins. 57 secs.

The weather was fine but somewhat full, although the sun burst through at intervals. The wind was almost due west, and the water was choppy. Cambridge won the toss and chose the Surrey side, which would give them an advantage for the four-mile race. Both boats had spins in the morning and were watched by the usual big crowds.

Although the race was scheduled to start at 4 p.m., it was not until 4.03 p.m. when the gun went off. Both crews were striking 36 and were level at the boat-houses when Oxford, pulling splendidly, took a slight lead at Beverley Brook.

Oxford maintained their lead at Raven Steps and Waldens, and after the race had been in progress for a mile, were still slightly ahead. At Crabtree, there was a great struggle. Past Crabtree, the Light Blues were up to 30 compared to Oxford's 28, took the lead by half a length at Harrod's.

The Light Blues' lead was due to a fine spurt as the boats were approaching Harrod's. Cambridge increased their lead to a length at Lead Mills, but Oxford reduced it to three quarters.

At the two-mile mark, both crews were rowing strenuously. The position was the same at Doves.

Lead Increased. Although the Dark Blues' pulled up to 30, which was the same as Cambridge, the latter increased their lead to a length at Hall. Both were rowing strongly, and with a great effort Oxford reduced the Light Blues' lead to three quarters of a length at Chiswick Eyot.

Past Chiswick Eyot, Cambridge once again increased their lead and at Chiswick Steps were a length ahead. Oxford spurted and recaptured a quarter of a length, but from Dukes Meadows Cambridge gradually drew away. At the three-mile mark, they were leading by one and three quarters of a length.

At Bulls Head, Cambridge led by nearly two lengths, which was maintained past Barnes Bridge and White Hart, both crews striking 32.

Oxford's Galland Bid. After Barnes Bridge, Oxford, who were favoured to the extent of a length at the bend, made a gallant bid to remedy their desperate plight and spurred unflinchingly, but made little impression on Cambridge who, without increasing their striking, held off their rivals somewhat easily.

Cambridge have now 44 wins and Oxford 40.—Reuter.

BOYCOTT OF JEWS

TWO SHOT DEAD IN COURSE OF OPERATIONS

Berlin, Apr. 2. The anti-Jewish boycott was badly organised in Berlin, so that Jewish shops in the suburbs are open and are not being molested.

The boycott is stricter elsewhere, but the only serious incident reported occurred at Kiel, where a Nazi picket was killed by a revolver shot from a furniture shop. Storm troops immediately fired a volley into windows, and forced an entrance, arresting the proprietor's son, who allegedly fired the shot. The prisoner was taken to the police station and shot dead by some persons whom the police admitted to his cell.—Reuter's Special.

Resumption Unlikely. Munich, Apr. 2. Von Streicher, the leader of the boycott, stated to-night that messages from abroad indicated that it will not be necessary to resume the boycott on April 5.—Reuter's Special.

SCHOOLS & HISTORY

At a moment in the world's history when national and racial prejudices are much in evidence
on all hands, more than passing
interest attaches to a movement
being undertaken in the Scandinavian countries by a society called "Norden." The aim of this body is to endeavour to get
the larger historical facts of life
correctly reflected in school text books. The movement has some significance from the fact that many wars have been fought
among these countries and much territory has changed hands. They have even had Kings in common and they have been torn by reciprocal jealousies. To develop a better attitude the delegates of the society's history
instruction committees met in Stockholm and decided to select specialists from each country to examine textbooks and recommend whatever changes may be deemed needed. The expense of the revisions will be borne by
the Norden Society and the work
is expected to be finished before
the end of next summer. Furthermore, permanent boards will
be appointed in each country to represent the society and to inspect future proposed textbooks,
so that publishers' and school
committees may feel assured as to the fairness of what they offer
the children. Finally, the society will publish special bibliographies and study guides for advanced research workers in history. This work will be done in co-operation with the International Committee of Historians, and gradually other nations may take similar action.
This is surely a field where much
can be done. For instance, all American school texts on the War for Independence might be checked by British historians,
and vice versa, or the chapters
in the World War and Franco-Prussian War in French and German books might be subject
to examination and possible revision by an international body,
preferably affiliated with the League of Nations. Would not considerable progress be made toward that mental disarmament which must precede physical disarmament? It is the children of to-day who will vote tomorrow. There is, of course,

a tendency in the preparation
of school history books towards
the extolling of national glory,
and to get a mistake in fact corrected, when it favours the national interest or vanity, is far from easy. But it is along the lines of courageous and fair treatment of facts that hope for
the wise future education of young people lies.

Sanctions and Peace

Whatever Japan may believe,
the League of Nations' decision
regarding her actions in Manchuria, was rendered by a disinterested and impartial jury.
The League report was no
ultimatum of a diplomatic cabal,
no device to maintain a balance
of power. It was the considered
judgment of a united world,
taken not in anger but with
greatest reluctance and only after seventeen months of investigation and pleading. And
it carries also the force of the nations' renunciation of war as an instrument of policy voiced
in the Kellogg pact. Japan
herself has subscribed to these high purposes. And sooner or later the false fervour of conquest—that old blinder of nations—will abate in Japan and
her people will recognise the
quality and force of the judgment passed by forty-two nations in Geneva and since approved "in general" by the United States. Meanwhile the
other nations have need further to purify and clarify their purposes. Can they with consistency or conscience say to Japan and China, "You must stop this slaughter," while at the same time putting into their hands—at a profit—the weapons
with which to prolong it? Yet
they must be wise in halting the wretched traffic in arms. An embargo upon both belligerents
in the Far East, such as Britain declared temporarily, works
out to the advantage of the aggressor, for Japan has munitions factories which can supply most of her requirements,
while China has not. Again—
Are the other nations strong enough and sincere enough in the desire to organise
peace that they are ready to make some sacrifices to carry out their announced purpose?
So far they have shown their faith only in words. They ask an aggressor to give up its conquest; what are they willing to give up to enforce their demand?
To establish a method of preventing war, will they run the risk of applying an embargo which might bring war upon themselves?
If the nations' peace purposes are pure enough and firm enough,
their moral might should suffice.

A Monumental Issue

The writer of a letter to The Times recently hazarded a daring guess that the reason the ancient Romans inscribed their monuments in Latin is that Latin was their native language. Now, Englishmen have a native language. Why, then, do they not use it on their public buildings and memorials instead of
so often employing a tongue that
ninety-nine people out of a hundred cannot understand? There is some justice in the complaint.
When in Rome, do as the Romans
do, may on occasion be a sound piece of advice; but there seems little point in doing as the Romans
did, when in London, Birmingham or Leeds. Yet in one respect Latin fits in better with the monumental style of prose than does English. A chief necessity for stone inscriptions is brevity.
It does not find prepositions pre-
possessing; the definite article
it definitely rejects. A case can,
therefore, be made out for Latin inscriptions. But care should be taken to see that the case is correct. If Cicero were entertained at Buckingham Palace, and fancied an after-dinner stroll in the Mall, the greatest possible care would have to be taken to keep him engaged in earnest conversation, lest his eyes glance up at the Admiralty Arch, which faces the Palace and has on it the curious information that it was erected by 1910 agreeable citizens—"Cives MDCCCCX." Cicero, being a man of affairs as well as a scholar,
would doubtless perceive that
the inscription was intended to say that the arch had been built
by grateful citizens in 1910.

THE CABARET QUESTION

By the Controversialist

The intending Controversialist
engaging a knotty problem like
the Great Cabaret Question inevitably is heckled by two questions, "Do you dance?" and "Have you been to a Cabaret?" Both difficult to answer, the first without unduly flattering himself and
the second sounding so terribly
like an accusation and a reproach.
Vexatious, they may be summarily
dismissed as being prompted by an idle and curious mind but for forum etiquette and usage demanding that a question however irrelevant be given attention. It
is conceded therefore that dancing,
or the manner in which it is
executed, is largely a matter of personal predilections and varies as much as the so-called expert
opinions held on it. The second
query is foolish, as seeming to imply that the Controversialist could have adventured into a weighty
problem without the preliminary survey demanded for a judicial
and constructive contribution.
Credentials furnished, the Con-
troversialist may be now permitted
to enter the forum without further restraint.

Now the Cabaret Question although its materialisation into the local form has impressed as a recent development, is by no means new.
King Solomon, to whom many
social amenities have been traced,
is credited with having held the first Cabaret although on somewhat restricted and monopolistic
lines. Passing down the ages we note, en passant, in the great tribal dances a joint community effort to provide inexpensive cabaret
amusement and recreation for old and young alike, entailing a minimum of skill in the performance of the few gyrations for
the satisfaction of a primordial
urge. Social conditions have since undergone a radical change,
and with a new order supplanting
the old, a pastime dating back to
the greatest antiquity, has become restricted.

The need for relaxation of
social strictures with increased
facilities for this form of recreation has in one direction been identified in some quarters as "bachelor isolation". It is an old cry. Long ago, in the Stone Age, it was heard over the wilderness and men, so situated, then went forth a-hunting with spear
and spear for the congenial companionship of the other sex. That men have since learned subterfuge means is represented as so much polish and "civilization"
gained, but the congregational
instinct peculiar to the species
remains as a restless urge for those with fewer opportunities.

When therefore the cry of
"bachelor isolation" arose in similar anguished strain in the Colony a few years ago, to the accompaniment of the refrain
"nowhere to go", some look to this
as a sure indication of a need,
a confirmation of the belief that Hongkong, busy hive of industry
by day, was inordinately a quiet
and dark place by night. By an ingenious process of reasoning, a
case for a dancing hall was made
out, but at the first bare mention
of "cabaret" a condemnation and
chorus of "bahs" was provoked
which had the effect of silencing further inopportunities. A scheme to couple the scheme to the business of a popular city café

was nipped in the bud.

It was left to an astute Oriental
to insert the thin end of the wedge
and apply the pressure that has since opened the door to a profitable business. To trace the evolution of the scheme is interesting. The man who thought out the Great Academy Plan with-
in the capacity of his own genius
may not then have had a full
envisagement of its possibilities
and so contented himself with the basic structure, while leaving to
others the full development.
Such has been the history of great
inventions, and has held good in this case which has taken a number of years to reach its present
stage of perfection. At the commencement we had simply the
"dancing club" where members of
both sexes and their friends
foregathered for indulging in a rational recreation. Next, the "dancing instructor" for the mass now beginning to like the art, fitted into the picture. The rest is well-known history. Official strictures were complied
with in theory if not in fact, and
the word "academy" has acquired
a new definition in the local dictionary. But call it by the term of "academy, school, college
or institution," whatever the fancy,
we have here the inner form of a cabaret dressed in scholastic garb.

Success and seeming immunity
from official interferences has encouraged emulation and these so-
called academies have acquired a mush-room growth. Nightly, saxaphone blared forth above the roar of city traffic and festoons of multi-coloured lights over the house-stops pointed the way to syncopeated revelry.

To have increased in such numbers could not have been possible
without the necessary clientele,
and the "popular support" for the
undertaking seems to have been justified by the crowds thronging
these places nightly.

The Controversialist has sketch-
ed all too briefly, the "historical
aspect" of the subject, and leaving it to be developed at a later
stage, will now take the issue
raised by these cabarets and as-
disclosed in the recent controversy. This may be defined by the progressive stages (a) does
an undertaking of the character
fulfil a genuine social or public
need; (b) if it does fulfil such a
need, is it liable to abuses; (c) if
such abuses tend to a social evil
having particular regard to a place like Hongkong; and (d) if effective control can always be superimposed in the interests of a well-ordered Colony?

The reply to the questions, excepting the last, has been facilitated by the experimental stage; in effect, to which the local cabaret
has been put in the fairly long period before the authorities have decided to legislate in the matter.
In our next article we will take a closer inspection of the subject,
and with the Controversialist
make an incursion into one of these resorts, selecting at haphazard and with no mind to discriminate either because we have heard or seen something to its advantage or disadvantage, or
because we have been told that it is the best or worst of its kind.

"Now, get this, you mugs! I don't want to have to rip you apart from any clichés."

The Very Idea!

A PUBLIC SCANDAL

By Eddie "Taipan" Kelly.

We've been insulted. We've been grossly insulted, and we're here to-day to expose the whole business and place a blot on someone's escutcheon.

We want to tell you right here
and now that of all the brilliant
journalists who have disgraced
themselves by coming East, we
... No, no! Modesty prevents
us from going further.

Anyway, we're right at the top
of the tree, if you get the idea.
Even Floyd Gibbons and Arthur
Brisbane look up to us.

We are two inches taller
than either of those gentlemen.

But to get back to this insult.
Only the other day, His Excellency, Lieutenant Colonel Antonio Jose Bernades da Miranda
arrived in Hongkong.

"Go," said the Editor "and see His X."

We set out, and having successfully negotiated the Hongkong Hotel and Hotel Cecil,
arrived safely and soberly at Queen's Pier.

A cohort of police bore down on
us. The following conversation
took place.

The Inspector: You get out of here, Kelly. This is a respectable
party.

Mr. Kelly: You're telling us.

The Inspector: I'm telling you.

Mr. Kelly: Well, piker, get the low-down on this (producing
police pass printed in English,
American, Chinese, Hindustani,
Urdu, and Can do.)

The Inspector: On your way,
bozo. That's no good here.

Mr. Kelly: Would—er—$10
fix things.

The Inspector: On your way,
small change, before I spend you.

So we went. It might sound
rather foolish and ineffectual
to our Great and Admiring Public,
but we reckon it's a lot of dirty
names.

All the taipans were down at Queen's Pier to meet His Ex.,
and what we would have bit them for
would have been a shame.

After all, what's a coupler
dollars between pals.

IN A PEAKIAN GARDEN.

Somebody once said that the
only place for a philosopher to
gain knowledge was in a garden,
and when we last cut our lawn we
learned quite a number of things.
For instance, if the thing that
goes round inside a lawn mower
is too close to another thing that stays still, the first thing does not go round at all, and all that happens is that the wheels make
two deep skid marks in the grass
that would make a traffic policeman looking for a clue whoop for joy.

We once managed to make a clear
run of a couple of feet before we heard that sickening crunch
which meant we had got to get down and risk losing another
finger. But we claim no credit
for this. It was sheer luck.

The grass round the edge can
be cut with a pair of scissors,
providing nobody misses them
from the work-basket, and then
you come to the biggest problem.
You are now able to see that the
borders of the lawn where it
meets the flower-beds are not as clearly defined as they should be,
and they have to be trimmed with
a spade.

We trimmed them, and when we
found that the sides of the lawn
were bent inwards like a bow, we worked again at the corners, with
the result that this time the sides
were convex. We then remembered that a really good gardener
like myself always uses a couple
of twigs stuck in the ground with
a straight edge, and finally, after working as meticulously as a sculptor on a statue of Venus, we managed to get them practically square.

Imagine our horror when we
found that by repeated trimming
we had reduced the size of that
lawn by nearly a yard all round.

We were out next day, and the
fah wong came. He waits until
he sees us disappear in a cloud of
dust round the corner then clocks
can find his own jobs without reference to us. He likes quiet, easy jobs, that require a lot of thought.

On our return he met us significantly wiping his brow. He explained that he had been tidy-
ing up, which means that he had collected, one by one, a bushel of dried leaves, and heaped them in
a spot where the first puff of wind
would scatter them and again make some more work for him. He had also done some real work. He said that the edges of the lawn
had been very ragged, and that he had trimmed them for us.

He had. Our lawn now looks like a green raft floating in a
silent sea of newly turned earth.
Still, unless somebody else trims
it again it is large enough for ping-pong, and, anyhow, it doesn't
take so long to roll.

SOLDIER SENT TO GAOLON THREE THEFT CHARGES

Private John Mason, of the South Wales Borderers, was sentenced to twelve weeks' hard labour by Mr. Schofield at the Central Police Court this morning, on charges relating to the theft of a silver cup from Private Edwin Jones, a quantity of clothing from Private Goodman, orderly of the lecture hall, Victoria Barracks, and stealing a gold wrist watch and a leather suitcase from Mr. S. M. Fernandez, 390, Hennessy Road, Wanchai, between January 18 and April 1.

Defendant, when asked by his Worship if he had anything to say, stated he was giving 7s. 6d. a week to his girl, and twice his application to get on to the Home establishment had been refused by the Commanding Officer. He was receiving 11d. per day.

Detective-Sergeant Fitches said the cup was won by Pte. Jones at the Borderers' sports last Friday. It was placed in a locker in the barracks, next to defendant's locker. On Saturday, while Private Jones was away, someone stole the trophy. On returning, he discovered the loss, but before reporting to the Sergeant in charge of the Military Police, he made a search and found a pawn ticket underneath the defendant's bed. Accompanied by a Quarter Master Sergeant, the defendant's kit was searched and eight other pawn tickets were discovered. Two of these tickets related to the property which formed the subject of the second and third charges.

Regarding the third charge, Sergeant Fitches said the defendant made the acquaintance of Mr. Fernandez, and, dressed in civilian clothes, represented himself as a Canadian, and sought employment. After meeting the defendant, complainant found his house had been entered.

Defendant had pawned Pte. Goodman's clothing for $11, the silver cup for $1 and the wrist watch for $5.50.

Lieut. H. M. Davis:—This man has a good military character. That is all I can say for him.

DESTRUCTION OF IDOLSRECENT KWANGSI INCIDENT

Whchow, Mar. 31. Considerable excitement was caused in the city of Peng Naam recently when the authorities confiscated a temple and destroyed the idols.

One of the largest idols in the city, known as "the Old Man of the Street," was destroyed. In the immediate vicinity of the temple, the people were so frightened by this sacrilegious act of the officials that they fled from the neighbourhood, and have made their homes in new quarters of the city. The idol was considered to have exceptional power by the people of Peng Naam.

The temple is now to be used as a public school for the poorer classes. No tuition is to be charged, the funds necessary for the management of the school being subscribed by the general public. This is a new step in the public school systems of inland China, and the officials are to be commended for their far-sightedness and their interest in the education of the vast multitudes who otherwise are neglected.—Our Own Correspondent.

WUCHOW NOTESUNIVERSITY BEING EXTENDED

In continuing its building programme, the Kwangsi University is erecting another large building which will greatly add to the housing accommodation of the institution. Under the able management of Dr. Ma, the Kwangsi University has made great strides during the last few years. A number of buildings have been erected and the campus at present is spread over considerable territory. Provision is made for sports and athletics. The teaching staff is composed of a very competent faculty, which includes two European professors.

Reports from the Peng Naam district bring the news that the military is making renewed efforts to stamp out banditry in this section of the Province. A detachment of soldiers returned the early part of the week with a number of prisoners, who were well shaken. The prisoners consisted of both men and women, many of whom were wounded, and showed signs of having suffered great hardship.—Our Own Correspondent.

RECENT CAPTURE OF BISHOPBANDITRY RIFE IN NORTH

Foochow, Mar. 23. News has just come to hand of the capture by bandits of Bishop Ding Ing-ong (Ch'en Yung-en), Assistant Bishop of the Anglican Church in Fukien. He left Foochow only a few days ago and travelled by steamer to Ningteh. Thence he went inland to the Shanyang district with the purpose of conducting confirmation services, and it must have been while approaching Shanyang that he was captured on Saturday, 25th March. All his friends will hope for his speedy release. The incident again shows up the utter futility of the Government authorities in many parts of the Province and their failure to secure peace and order for the people. Banditry is still far too rife in many places. Bishop Ding has had many narrow escapes before, but this is the first time he has actually fallen into the hands of bandits.

The Literacy Campaign, of which I wrote recently, is still being pushed on in Foochow, and it is hoped to start a number of schools for the illiterate early in April. But many difficulties have to be overcome, and it will require considerable determination to attain the aim that has been set, of teaching all illiterates under twenty-five years of age to read before the summer.—Our Own Correspondent.

INDIAN UNREST.ARRESTS FOLLOW BANNED CONGRESS MEETING

Calcutta, Apr. 1. The series of arrests of Nationalists, which were made recently to prevent the banned meeting of Congress, have not deterred the supporters of Congress who to-day assembled in the tramways shed and squatted, refusing to move even when the police arrived.

They were, finally dispersed, after 150 including Mrs. Nellie Songputa, the English wife of the Bengal Congress-Leader and 40 other women, were arrested.

Copies of the Congress resolutions, which were taken as read, were distributed among the crowd both inside and outside the shed.—Reuter.

A Chinese woman was injured yesterday at Shaukiwan, in a moving train. In the fall she received serious injuries to her head and body, and was taken to hospital.

The P. and O. liner Ranchi is due here from Singapore with the English mails at 10 a.m. on Wednesday.

An official police report issued at Headquarters this morning confirms the report elsewhere in this issue that in the course of an encounter between a Customs launch, the Kwan Lai, and a suspect junk on Saturday morning outside the harbour, a 3-year-old girl on the junk was killed by a shot fired from the Customs cruiser.

the results of the trial. "Evidently these gentlemen are most of all afraid of publicity in this case, which is a delicate one for them. They are therefore employing all possible means to secure an exemption of British subjects from Soviet jurisdiction regardless of available data pointing to a crime, regardless of proofs, and regardless even of the depositions of the accused."

"The Soviet Union," Pravda continues, "is an independent country and all residing within its borders, irrespective of their state citizenship, are responsible before its laws. The trial of the wreckers will take place and nothing the British diaphanous press may do will spare them this annoyance."

"CIVILISED METHODS."

Answering that section of the British press which in writing of the Moscow case has assumed the mantle of concern for "civilized methods" and "civilized methods," Pravda asks: "What laws and which civilization were followed by the British authorities, and particularly by Captain Reginald T. Jones, in the shooting of 26 Baku Bolsheviks on the territory of the Soviet Republic, without even the semblance of a trial of investigation, on September 20, 1918? Who are these scribbles to speak of humanity and justice now and to cast doubt on the fairness of Soviet judicial organs, when they have in their record the crime of Captain Jones which they justified."—Reuter and Tass.

FIGHTING RESUMEDHSIMENCHAI OCCUPIED BY JAPANESE FORCES

Peking, Apr. 1. According to Chinese reports, 2,000 Japanese troops yesterday suddenly advanced on the Chinese lines from Chienmenkow, one column attacking Hsinmenkow, and another attacking Shaoheishan.

Japanese planes assisted their attack which the Chinese met from two hills near Shikimenchai.

Fighting continued until the afternoon, when Chinese reports claimed that the Japanese had retired.—Reuter.

NEW TEST RECORD."Wally" Hammond Outshines Don Bradman.*MAGNIFICENT FEAT.

Auckland, Apr. 1. Don Bradman's magnificent innings of 334 made against England at Leeds in 1930, which has hitherto been the record for an individual Test score, was shattered by W. R. Hammond, the Gloucester all-rounder, to-day when he knocked up 336 not out in England's first innings against New Zealand.

By carrying his overnight score of 41 to 336 not out, Hammond was mainly responsible for England's score of 548 for seven wickets when the innings was declared closed. Included in his scoring strokes were no fewer than 10 sixes and 33 boundaries. He was at the wicket for 318 minutes.

In their second innings, New Zealand had scored eight runs with all their wickets intact. They therefore require 332 more runs to save an innings defeat.

The Play.

When Hammond (41) and Wyatt (56) resumed batting in the morning, the weather was fine and the wicket was in good condition. The latter did not stay long, however, being bowled by Dunning after he had made only four to his overnight score. The score was then 139 for two wickets.

The Gloucester all-rounder was joined by Paynter, and runs came steadily. At lunch, Hammond had 152 not out and the Lancashire batsman claimed 35 not out. The former was in magnificent form scoring all round the wicket. The score-board read 232 for two.

Dunning claimed another victim after lunch, Paynter's defence being pierced with only four more to his lunch score, 288/3.

Ames was next man in, but after he had made 25, he was bowled by Badcock, 34/4. Allen had only 12 to his credit when he was also bowled by Badcock 40/5.

Brown did not stay long at the wicket. He collected 13 and was judged a ball from Weir, being caught by Page. Vote made 16 and was bowled by Weir, 50/7.

Hammond reached his third century just before the tea-interval. He had hit 10 sixes and 30 boundaries in his innings of 302, and had completely demoralised the bowlers. Immediately after Hammond had passed Bradman's record score, Wyatt, the English skipper, declared the innings closed. Duckworth had made six not out. Scores:

BIGGEST FOOTBALL SENSATION OF THE SEASON

South China, Potential Champions, Lose to Recreio

MISERABLE DISPLAY OF SHOOTING BY CHINESE

BY "VERITAS"

attackers to make an impression on the Police defence played an important part of the result.

MEDIOCRITY hardly describes the standard of football served up by the teams. The Police won because they deserved to, but as a criterion of first division football, the game was scarcely complimentary.

ONE begins to wonder whether the Philippines tour made by St. Joseph's was as beneficial as would be desired. Since their return there has not only been a noticeable falling off in the type of football they play, but the difficulty of team raising has become an acute problem.

A V. Gosano has not made a single appearance in the eleven since its return to the Colony, and on Saturday, not only he, but his brother, together with Costa and other regular members, were missing from the team.

THE result was the inclusion of three Recreio players, who came in at the very last minute in fact fifteen minutes after the scheduled time for kick-off—to make the side up to ten in numbers.

THE Athletic, shall we say strengthened by the inclusion of some second eleven players, took full advantage of this, and won the first match they have played for two months.

THE most praiseworthy performance of the day came from the Club, who, without Rodger in goal, Andy Duncan at left half and Williams at inside right, held the powerful Navy to a division of spoils.

THE Club line-up was extremely experimental, but distinctly successful. Manning Raiton and Martin defended soundly, and Syd Strange played magnificently at centre-half. George Punccheon, for years one of the mainstays of the Club reserves, came in to fill a niche at left half, and the forwards (the boasting of Dominy on the right wing, E. Strange at centre-forward obviously his real place) and Desmond Hynes, former centre-half and left back, at inside left, was one of the most energetic the Club have fielded this year.

rioritarily outplayed for seven eights of the match, but when it came to the all-important phase of netting goals, they showed their opponents a thing or two.

SANTOS, the Interport trial player was a brilliant attacker, and it was fitting the deciding goal should come from his foot.

THIS is the second time the Recreio have lowered proud colours, their previous feat being against the Lincolns.

CLOSER investigation of the league table now points to a definite challenge being offered the Artillery for second place, and the challenge is coming from the Borderers, who, taking advantage of the R.A. lapse against the Police, crept two points nearer their objective.

THE 24th have dropped only two points more than their rivals, and as the present league leaders have yet another three matches to go, some very decided positional changes may be effected in the table before the season's final whistle is blown.

IT seems that I placed too much faith in the Borderers second string. A fortnight ago they looked a dead certainty for runners-up in the second division, but a trouncing by the Lincolns on Saturday has somewhat altered the complexion of things.

THIS was the "Swob" last match and the position is that if the Lincolns win their remaining encounter, they can pip their soldier rivals by one point. On the other hand a draw will be useless to them, as the Borderers have much the superior goal average.

GIVING about the poorest display of the season, the Artillery lost heavily to the Police. They seemed like fish out of water minus the services of Wood and Moore in the forward line, and the complete disability of any of the

AND that's that!

THE Artillery lost their fourth league match on Saturday and left South China sitting pretty waiting to gather the points necessary to win the championship.

AT least, this was the general impression when Saturday's results were known, but "came the dawn," bringing with it the biggest sensation of the season, the defeat of South China by Recreio.

IT was a bewildered, and completely disillusioned crowd who wended their way from Caroline Hill yesterday afternoon. And there wasn't a single South China supporter who could find a reasonable excuse for his club's reverse.

IT was the result of gross carelessness and underestimation of the ability of the Portuguese team.

OF course South China could have scored ten goals. But they didn't. And by the same token they could have stopped the Recreio from netting either of the two which gave them the points. But again they didn't.

IT was, in fact, the old old story of an assumed superiority, a superiority which was not proven when it came to scoring goals.

THE result does not materially affect South China's championship chances but it does indicate two or three not insignificant points.

THE first is that the Chinese as marksmen are becoming less and less capable, and another that, although still the finest exponents of the scientific game in the Colony, South China are by no means unbeatable.

IT is also worthy of comment that of the three times South China colours have been lowered, two of them have been at the hands of lowly placed clubs. The Hongkong Club were the first to achieve the feat, and now come the Recreio.

EVERY credit is due to the Portuguese for the performance. They may have been ter-

ANOTHER WIN IN MAMAK LEAGUE

WEEK-END GAMES DESCRIBED

By "Bully-Off"

The Incognitos continue to forge ahead in the Mamak tournament and on Saturday scored a convincing victory over the Phoenix, netting nine times with only two replies. The game was played on the Radio ground at Caroline Hill and the Incogs, forwards ran riot. At the outset it looked as though the Incogs would have an uphill fight for the points as the score in the early stages stood at 1-1. The Incogs, however, improved and at the interval led by seven goals to two. They found the net twice in the second half.

Scorers for the Incogs were J. J. Pinto (3), Xavier (3), R. C. Reed (2) and C. Barros.

RUNNERS-UP HELD.

The Club de Recreio, who have this season wrested the Southern Runners-up Cup from St. Andrew's, were held to a goalless draw in the final match of the Caer Clark Cup competition on Saturday by the Y.M.C.A. Ladies.

Contrary to expectation the "Y" had the better of the game territorially and were unfortunate in not netting on several occasions in the second half. The score, however, was a fair indication of the run of play.

It was not until the last few minutes of the second half that the Recreio found their form and then they pierced the "Y" defence but failed to register after A. Alves had cut through on her own and hit the upright.

HOME RUGGER.

Scotland Annex the Championship.

IRELAND DEFEATED.

London, Apr. 1. In fine weather before 40,000 spectators, Scotland won the International Rugby Championship by defeating Ireland at Dublin by eight points to six.

The match was fought out in a hard and determined manner though there was nothing brilliant in the play throughout. The best piece of combined play among the backs occurred in the first minute when Coote, in possession of the ball, broke through and passed to Lightfoot, who transferred it for Crowe to score an unconverted try for Ireland.

Before the interval, however, Scotland took the lead as a result of a beautiful drop-goal scored by Jackson (formerly of Shanghai) from a scrum.

At half-time, the score was 4/8 in favour of Scotland. Ireland went ahead again soon after the resumption when Murray pierced the Scottish defence to score a try which was again unconverted. Ten minutes before time, Lind dropped a goal to give Scotland the victory by eight points to six.

TO MEET HOCKEY CHAMPIONS

CAER CLARK CUP "REST" SELECTED.

THE following have been selected to represent the Rest eleven against the H. K. Ladies, Champions of the Caer Clark Cup, at King's Park on Saturday, at 4 p.m.

B. Almada (Recreio)
C. Osmund (Recreio)
A. Fowler (Y.M.C.A.)
E. Xavier (Recreio)
E. M. Beavis (C.B.A.)
M. L. W. Bryson (St. Andrew's)
P. E. Gittins (St. Andrew's)
M. Mason (Y.M.C.A.)
M. Woolley (St. Andrew's)
S. Dalziel (Y.M.C.A.)
M. Remedios (Recreio)

QUITE A GOOD TEAM

By "Sticks"

E. M. Beavis, the brilliant centre-half who has been a tower of strength in the C.B.A. Ladies defence, and who possesses much stamina, has received official recognition. As the sole representative of the C.B.A., she has been selected to play at centre-half for the Rest of the League eleven against the Hongkong Ladies, Champions of the Caer Clark Cup, on Saturday at King's Park.

In the Telegraph Probable XI, A. Fowler, of the Y. Ladies, was suggested as left half-back, and the selectors have allotted her this position. In her displays in the trials, as in most of the other games, A. Fowler has shown a definite tendency to infringe the rule against "sticks," and is prone to take the risk of too many first-timers. However, we can rest assured that she will have all the support she needs in C. Osmund, of the Recreio, and no better choice could have been made for the position of right back.

M. L. W. Bryson, of the Saints, has given brilliant displays in the trials, and she had been entrusted the position of left half-back, and she will probably be marking M. Alun-Jones with H. Knill on the right flank. Miss Beavis is at centre and the right half position will be filled by E. Xavier, of the Recreio, who has played consistently well throughout the season. She fully deserves a place. On the whole, I can safely say that the half-back line is the strongest possible and will give the Hongkong forwards something to think about.

AN APT LEADER.

No better choice of a leader could have been made than M. Woolley, the clever Saints forward. She has led the Rest eleven for the past two years. Of the six goals scored by her side in the three trials matches, she has netted all. In yesterday's trial game Miss Woolley scored three to register the "hat-trick."

The biggest surprise of the day was the dropping of A. Alves (Recreio) the cleverest inside-left of the Kowloon teams. I cannot see why she has not been given the position. Her place is being filled by S. Dalziel, of the Y. Ladies, who, true enough, played a brilliant game at centre-forward on Saturday against the Recreio. It appears this one display gained her recognition in the team.

STRONGER ATTACK POSSIBLE.

O. Brown, also of the Y. Ladies, has been dropped from the left wing, as she has been found to have little control of the ball, although there is no denying she is the fastest wing runner. M. Remedios (Recreio) has been chosen and she should render a good account of herself. Had there not been such a dearth of right wings, P. Gittins, of the Saints, would most probably fill the position. The forward line, I state definitely, could be improved.

B. Almada, who has been given the position of goalkeeper, is a safe player and keeps a cool head. The choice is a wise one.

CHAMPIONS v REST SECOND DIVISION CRICKET TEAM CHOSEN

THE following have been selected to represent the Rest against the Craigen-gower Cricket Club second eleven, league champions of the junior division on Saturday next on the I.R.C. ground:

M. P. Madar (I.R.C.) capt.
K. P. Gan (University)
Sgt. Tucker (R.E. & S.)
Dr. Whitley (R.A.S.C.)
C. F. Alexander (Police)

CRICKET'S LAST KICK

BATSMEN SCORE FREELY

FRIENDLIES THE ORDER OF THE DAY

Cricket's temporary exile from the realm of local sport is approaching, and on Saturday league interest was confined to one match in the second division which saw the Police conclude their season's programme with a comfortable success against the R.A.S.C., whilst friendly games were comparatively few and offered little in the way of outstanding features.

Thanks to a fourth wicket stand between Carey and Wynne, the Police passed the Corps total after losing three wickets for 24 runs.

A fine piece of bowling was credited to Mr. T. H. King, the deputy I.G.P., who had the following analysis:

O. M. R. Wkts.

3 0 6 4

I. McInnes, the Australian Grade cricketer, Gordon Burnett and W. C. Hung pulled the K.C.C. out of the fire when the Peninsula took first knock in their two-day friendly with the Hongkong Cricket Club.

McInnes helped himself to a very nice 58, whilst Burnett remained unbeaten with 33 against his name and between them pushed the K.C.C. score along to 185. It was fitting that J. C. Lyal, who was making his farewell appearance for the Kowloon Club, for whom he has done such yeoman service with the ball, should contribute a useful double figure innings.

The Hongkong men, however, made light of this score, and with Harley and Garthwaite hitting out gallantly, were able to declare at 294 for 9, and dismiss the K.C.C., a second time for 77 to win by an innings.

Lieut. Garthwaite, the Scottish cricketer accomplished an all-round performance by scoring 78 and capturing 9 wickets for 83 in two innings.

The 4th Submarine Flotilla fairly collared the Craigen-gower attack, and with Marsham and Sparrow each topping the 50, mark exceeded the Happy Valley Club's aggregate with six wickets in hand.

Outstanding on the field was S. Dalziel, the Y. M. Centre-forward while the pick of the Recro was E. Other prominent players were C. Omand and M. Basto, in the Recro defence.

FRIENDLIES.

The Hongkong Ladies, holders of the Gaird Clark Cup, drew with the St. Andrew's Ladies in a friendly encounter at Sookunpoo each side scoring once. St. Andrew's opened the scoring through M. Woolley while Mrs. P. M. Harrop netted the equaliser soon afterwards.

The Y.M.C.A. "A" were defeated by two goals to one at the hands of the Dragons ("B" Coy. S.W.B.) at King's Park on Saturday. The game was fast and saw the Dragons constantly on the offensive. They opened the scoring through Pte George but before the interval G. Fowler equalised. Following a fine solo effort in the second half George again scored giving the Dragons a win.

RADIO'S CLOSE CALL.

The Naval Lower Deck XI were opposed to the Radio in a friendly game during the week-end and were beaten by the narrow margin of five goals to four. The Navy opened the scoring through Mercer but G. Singh equalised soon after the re-bully. Before the interval the Navy found the net on two occasions through McCrae for a lead of 3-1. On resumption McCrae completed his "hat-trick" before the Indians improved their game and reduced the sailors' advantage to 4-3, the scores being G. Singh and Avtar Singh. Navy were awarded six corners in quick succession but failed to take advantage of them and before the end the Radio scored two more goals to give them an odd goal win.

Outstanding were Avtar and G. Singh for the Radio, and Barsby and Reid for the Navy side.

MACAO'S GOVERNOR GUEST OF HONOUR.

DECORATION GIVEN TO SIR ROBERT HO TUNG

The Portuguese community held a reception at the Club Lusitano on Saturday night in honour of H. E. the Governor of Macao (Lt. Col. A. Bernardes de Miranda) on the occasion of his brief official visit to Hongkong prior to departure on business for Portugal. Opportunity was taken by Lt. Col. de Miranda to invest Sir Robert Ho Tung with the Grand Officer'ship of the Military Order of Christ, in recognition of his services to Portuguese interests in the Far East. The distinction was the more notable in view of the fact that Sir Robert is the first Chinese to be thus honoured.

Lt. Col. Bernardes de Miranda was accompanied by his daughter, Senhora Maria Nazare de Miranda, and A. D.C. Captain Cruz Ribeiro, and arrived at the Club under the guidance of the Acting Consul-General for Portugal, Mr. C. A. da Rosa, who was accompanied by Mrs. da Rosa. They were received at the entrance by members of the Committee of the Club Lusitano and representatives of the three other Portuguese organizations in Hongkong. They were then escorted upstairs into the magnificent Hall de Camoens, which was tastefully decorated for the occasion.

In the distinguished gathering already assembled there were Sir Robert and Lady Ho Tung, Col. L. G. Bird, Captain S. Jarvis and Officers of the Portuguese Company of the Hongkong Volunteer Defence Corps; Hon. Sir Shouson Chow, Hon. Mr. R. H. Kotewall, Hon. Mr. S. W. Tsoi, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. C. Basto, Mr. and Mrs. B. Basto, Mr. and Mrs. Antonio Basto, Dr. Graca Ozorio, Dr. and Mrs. Bernardo de Souza, Mr. and Mrs. A. F. B. Silva Netto, Lieutenants V. Correia and Oliveira Soares; M. R. Soullange Teissier, Consul for France; Mr. M. J. Quist, Consul-General for the Netherlands; Mr. Wong Kwong-tin, Mr. Leo D'Almeida e Castro, Jr., Mr. C. Y. Kwan, Mrs. Horace Lo, Mr. J. C. Gutierrez and other members of the Portuguese Community.

By a happy coincidence, H. E. Ouang Cheung-chang, Chinese Minister to Lisbon, and a close friend of Sir Robert Ho Tung, was passing through the Colony on his return to China, and was present at the reception and investiture which followed. Hon. Mr. Lo Huen-chung, a member of the Macao Legislative Council, and Mr. Fan Kit-pang, Chairman of the Macao Chinese General Chamber of Commerce were visitors from Macao noticed in the gathering of about 300 people.

Consul General's Welcome.
In his capacity of Acting Consul General, Mr. C. A. da Rosa extended a warm welcome to His Excellency the Governor of Macao on behalf of the four Portuguese organizations in Hongkong, the nature and functions of which he proceeded to define as follows: the Club Lusitano, the oldest Portuguese national establishment in the Far East; the Club de Recreio, a recreative centre for the youth Macaenses; the Associao Portuguesa de Socorros Mutuos, a benevolent Association of the Portuguese community; and the Liga Portuguesa, a national institution which by its initiative and zeal has proved its value and merit in national interests. All these Associations, he said, offered most cordial good wishes and greetings of welcome to the Governor of Macao and the representative of Portugal.

The toasts the Consul General proposed, for Portugal, Macao and H. E. the Governor, were responded to with loud vivas.

Governor's Reply.
H. E. the Governor of Macao, in his reply, thanked the Portuguese Community for the honour accorded him by the reception. He said that their Home Government well knew that in this British Colony of Hongkong there were Portuguese who formed a community with a loyal regard for the place in which

LESSON SERMON.

FIRST CHURCH OF CHRIST, SCIENTIST, HONGKONG

"Unreality" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, yesterday.

The Golden Text was: "Thus saith the Lord, What iniquity have your fathers found in me, that they are gone far from me, and have walked after vanity, and are become vain? (Jer. 2:5).

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "In the beginning was the Word, and the Word was with God, and the Word was God. The same was in the beginning with God. All things were made by him; and without him was not any thing made that was made." (John 1:1-3).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "In the Gospel of John, it is declared that all things were made through the Word of God, 'and without Him (the logos, or word) was not anything made that was made.' Everything good or worthy, God made. Whatever is valueless or baneful, He did not make, hence its unreality." (P. 525).

Continuing, His Excellency said that Macao also well knew the good work being carried on by the Liga Portuguesa. Its national point of view, its services rendered to the Portuguese Consulate and to the Colony of Macao, and its commercial and national propaganda, deserved the moral and material support of the Lisbon Government. Recognition of its worth had been forthcoming, he said, in the form of a grant of $1,200 from the Macao Government.

SIR ROBERT HONOURED.

Decorated by Governor With Ancient Order of Christ.

An interesting ceremony followed the reception, when Sir Robert Ho Tung had conferred on him the Grande Oficial de Ordem Militar de Cristo.

The distinguished recipient, wearing other Orders already conferred by the Government of China and foreign Governments, in advancing to receive the decoration from the hands of H. E. the Governor of Macao, was supported by two Commandadores of the Order, Mr. C. A. da Rosa and Mr. B. Basto.

In presenting the recipient to His Excellency, Mr. Rosa said that Sir Robert Ho Tung, whose qualities were well-known, had received high honours from other Governments as well as his own. His now being similarly honoured by the Portuguese Government was received with the greatest satisfaction by members of the Portuguese Community here.

Continuing, Mr. Rosa said that His Excellency had kindly consented to grant a request which he had made and to avail himself of the opportunity to invest Sir Robert with the Order in the name of the Home Government.

The Order was pinned on amidst great applause, and Sir Robert and Lady Ho Tung received the warm congratulations of the gathering.

Dancing followed, and supper was served at 1 a.m.

Official Changes.
It was stated that His Excellency the Governor of Macao is sailing for Portugal by the M. M. Chenonceaux, leaving here on the 11th instant, for an important conference at Lisbon with other Governors of Portuguese colonies and possessions.

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. da Rosa are also leaving this month on the s.s. Conte Rosso for Acors, and during Mr. Rosa's absence, the duties of Consul General will be discharged by Mr. Pedro Botelho pending the arrival of the new Portuguese Consul General, Senhor Brazil Rodrigues, who has been transferred from Rio de Janeiro.

for a long while. She snapped out the light and then lay still and wide awake. She was thinking of Dick, no longer the attentive, pleading sweetheart but a pal, a friend. He had talked to her exactly as he might have to any of a dozen girls. Asked about her work and showed friendly interest. Now that Dick was apparently out of reach he seemed much more attractive.

Was it possible that she could be falling in love with him? With Dick? Was it possible that she had been mistaken in her devotion to Jerry?

She arrived at Henri's promptly next morning. The day moved much as the one before it except that it was easier because she knew what to expect. True to her word, Dorothy Trevor arrived in the afternoon and ordered several frocks. She must have said something to Henri about Sheila because he drew Sheila aside just before the end of the day and said quietly, "This once I shall close my eyes to the fact that last night I saw you drive away with Miss Trevor. Oh, yes, I saw you! See that you don't do it again, however!"

CONTRACT BRIDGE

By W. E. McKenney

This is the second article explaining the hold-up. The hold-up is a play whereby you refuse to win a suit led by an opponent, preferring to retain control of that suit until the other opponent's hand is exhausted of that suit, or until you learn that it is equally divided and therefore is not dangerous.

The Bidding

Again we find a hand where South opens with a bid of one no trump. Partner has a five-card suit, but he also has strength in the other two suits, therefore the club suit should not be mentioned. It would be better for him to jump right into three no trump.

♠ J-2	♥ A-7-3	♦ 7-4	♣ A-J-5-2
♠ 10-7-4	♥ 5-3	♦ 10-6-4	♣ 9-8
♠ 9-8-5	♥ K-Q-6	♦ K-7-6	♣ 4-3
♠ A-Q-6	♥ K-J-9-2	♦ A-3-2	♣ Q-10-8

The Play

It is West's opening lead and he should attack with his longest and strongest suit, which is headed by jack, ten, nine. Therefore his proper opening is the jack, not the fourth best.

East, holding the king, queen and six, should not play the six, but should put on his queen in order to unblock.

Before playing to the trick the declarer must count up his hand. He can see three sure spade tricks, two hearts, a diamond and the club, making seven. To go game he must find two more tricks, and it is natural to expect that they can be found most easily in the club suit.

If you can find West with the king of clubs you will have no difficulty in making your contract. However, if East holds the king and you win this first trick with the ace, then after winning with his king of clubs, East will return a diamond and your contract will be lost.

If East and West both hold four diamonds, you have only three losing diamonds. Therefore the safest way is to make sure that, if West originally held five diamonds, East will not be able to put him in the lead to make the extra diamond trick.

Therefore the declarer should hold up, refusing to play his ace of diamonds on two rounds. On the first trick, he should play the deuce of diamonds. East should return his king of diamonds—not the six, or he would block the suit.

When he returns the king of diamonds, South must again refuse to win. When East returns the ace of diamonds the declarer wins six with the ace, discards a heart from dummy and now leads his queen of clubs.

East will win with the king, and now regardless of what he returns the declarer has the rest of the tricks.

Lay this hand out again, reversing the ace and queen of clubs. You have exactly the same situation, with West opening the jack of diamonds and East playing the queen.

Again we find that to make the contract the rest of the tricks must be found in the club suit; but the finesse must be taken toward the hand that has originally opened the diamonds—therefore there is no need to employ the hold up.

It is needless to attempt to exhaust East's hand of diamonds, because you intend to take the club finesse right into the West hand, and if it falls your contract will be defeated, as he will win with the king and cash four diamond tricks.

Therefore, you should employ the hold-up when intending to take the finesse into the hand of the partner of the opening leader, but it is not necessary to use the hold-up when you intend to take the finesse directly into the hand of the opening leader.

CINEMA SCREENINGS.

NOTES SUPPLIED BY THE THEATRES

Cinematically speaking, life has been made with Mae Clarke. The capital and charming young actress, whose most recent film, "Three Wise Girls," a Columbia picture is showing from Thursday at the Queen's Theatre, and more than once she hasn't had the courage to see her way clear. And now in "Three Wise Girls," Mae Clarke finds that life is still against her. When she is discarded by the man with whom she is hopelessly in love, and for whom she has sacrificed her self respect, she is so completely broken up that she ends it all by taking poison. All in all her film life has hardly been a bed of roses. In each of her characterizations, she has contributed performance which tremendous critical acclaim, which proved that in reality, life was with her. In "Three Wise Girls," in which she appears with Jean Harlow, Marie Prevost, Walter Byron, Andy Devine and Jameson Thomas, she is said to equal her past successes. William Beaudine is responsible for the direction.

"The Sign of Four"

Isla Bevan was educated at Courtin in Belgium. Left at the age of 17 and became one of Mr. Cochrane's "Young Ladies" in "This Year of Grace." From this she was chosen by Mr. Noel Coward to play one of the bridesmaids in the New York production of "Bitter Sweet." On her return from New York she appeared in Mr. H. Harwood's "Cynara" at the Playhouse Theatre, London, understudying Celia Johnson, which part she afterwards played opposite Mr. Owen Nares on tour. It was in this film producer with the result that she was placed under contract with A. R. P. studios. "Nine Till Six" was Miss Bevan's first screen appearance followed by "The Sign of Four," which will be shown at the King's Theatre on Thursday.

"Tess of the Storm Country"

Janet Gaynor and Charles Farrell in "Tess of the Storm Country" make their bow to local audience at the King's Theatre. Adapted from the novel by Grace Miller White and the dramatization by Rupert Hughes, "Tess" is said to offer plenty of thrilling moments. The heroine is the daughter of an old sea-captain who decides she is getting too old to continue cruising around with him. They accordingly establish themselves in a little cottage on the Maine but are ejected by a crusty old mill-owner who lays claims to the property. When Tess rescues a young man from drowning and then discovers that he is the millionaire's son, she goes berserk; much to his amusement. The boy wins her reluctant admiration, however, when he helps her after her father has been accused and convicted on a false murder charge following the killing of a game warden. With Dudley and Claude Gillingwater as the two fathers, June Clyde as Farrell's sister and Edward Pawley, Mitty Kemp, George Meeker, and De Witt Jennings in prominent roles and the direction of Alfred Santell, "Tess" promises to be one of the most successful of its star's offerings.

"Steady Company"

Two of the most admired members of the screen's younger set of featured players, Norman Foster and June Clyde, are together in Universal's sparkling romance, "Steady Company," now showing at the Central Theatre. Foster and Miss Clyde are two of the most popular of the new generation of stars, and reported as their best in this swift drama of a truck who makes the supreme attempt at fame through boxing gloves. Henry Armetta, Walter Miller, J. Farrell MacDonald, Willard Robertson, Zasu Pitts and Jack Perry are in the cast, which Edward Ludwig directed.

HONGKONG TRADE.

REPORTS BY IMPORTERS FOR PAST FORTNIGHT

The following reports have been supplied by importers to the Hongkong General Chamber of Commerce: Cotton Piece Goods & Fancy Cotton Goods.—The following reports have been received:

Local prices for Staples and Fancies have not recovered from the recent decline and the market remains dull. Clearances are slower on account of lack of demand from the country centres and the coastal ports, due, it is said, to rumours of a possible extension of Japanese military operations.

The latest Cotton prices to hand are those of the 31st March:

American Mid. "Spot" 5154.

Egyptian Saki. F.O.F. "Spot" 7104.

Woolens.—The steadier tone of exchange is bringing out some business in Woolens but the prices offered are very low and no great volume of orders is going through. Some transactions are reported, but there appears to be more enquiry for Rayon yarn. Many Bradford representatives are now in the Colony and the usual orders for July/August shipment should be forthcoming during the next few weeks, especially if exchange remains stable.

Metals.—Continental Market—prices falling. Local market—buying was done last week but business generally is dull.

Flour.—Stocks: American 150,000 bags Canadian 150,000 " Australian 500,000 "

JUNK TRAGEDY

FIGHT WITH ARMED CUSTOMS LAUNCH

A tragic outcome to an armed encounter between a Chinese Maritime Customs cruiser and a suspect junk was brought to the notice of the Hongkong Police authorities on Saturday, when a Water Police launch returned to the harbour with the dead body of a three-year-old Chinese girl, who was killed on the junk.

The affair is somewhat shrouded in mystery, but waterfront inquiries have in some measure connected the facts. The junk, it is stated, is one registered in Hongkong, and until it met with the tragic encounter on Saturday had been making periodical trips to points on the Chinese mainland and on the Canton Delta.

Early on Saturday morning the vessel left Shamshuipo on one of these trips, having on board cargo whose nature appears to have come under suspicion as contraband for smuggling ashore into Chinese territory.

Aboard were also a number of Chinese passengers, although it is claimed that this was not generally known.

Under Observation. From this point, the junk, locally registered as T2051H, appears to have been kept under observation, and when it left the harbour it is alleged to have been followed by the Customs launch Kwan Lui and stopped when outside Lyeemun Pass for the purposes of a search.

An exchange of shots is then said to have taken place. Provoked, it is claimed, by the junk firing on her first, the Kwan Lui opened up with her quick-firer. Apparently a number of shots fired struck the junk, and killed a three-year-old child, daughter of a passenger. The junk then dove to.

The affair was one between the Customs cruiser and the junk, and the local Police only knew of it when a radio call for assistance was received and a Police launch was sent out to tow in the distressed junk.

The body of the girl was removed ashore to the Mortuary. It had wounds in the right shoulder, and one side of the face had also been severely wounded.

Japanese circles declare that are afoot that his visit to China is connected with an effort to bring about direct negotiations with China for a settlement of the

FIDUCIARY ISSUE

FINANCES REFLECTED IN RETURN TO NORMALCY

London, Apr. 1.
The Treasury authority under which the Bank of England was empowered to issue an additional £15,000,000 of notes not covered by gold expired last night, and as the Bank did not ask for a renewal of authority, the fiduciary issue reverts to the normal statutory amount of £250,000,000.
The increase to £275,000,000 dated from September, 1931, when the Gold Standard was suspended.
The reason for non-action on the part of the Bank is to be found in its recent big acquisition of gold.
Since January, when the present influx of gold began, the Bank of England has acquired nearly £64-000,000, and the additional gold acquired has increased the metal cover for the note issue and renders the increase in confidence cover unnecessary.

Securities Steady.

London, April 3.
A sensation has been created by news that the funeral of one of the victims of the City of Liverpool air-liner disaster was stopped by the police yesterday and the body removed for enquiry.

RT. REV. R. O. HALL AND "MY LORD"

REQUESTS TERM BE DROPPED

The Bishop of Victoria does not like being addressed or referred to as "My Lord."

In the current issue of the St. Andrew's Church Magazine he says: "Please grant me this request: that the word 'Lord' be no more heard on platform or in letter."
The word itself is one of respect for the commission which I hold from the Lord Jesus Himself, but I would rather, and I believe He would rather, that respect for Him was shown in his own simple ways. So please just plain "Bishop" or "Bishop Hall" in the future.

BAD WEATHER IN INDO-CHINA

No further news has been received regarding Mr. Rein y Loring's flight and it is presumed that he is still held up at Thakhet by bad weather which prevents him from crossing the mountains to Hanoi.
He is unlikely to take any risks at this stage, his hope of reaching Manila in eleven days having already been destroyed. Very bad weather along the Indo-China coast is reported.

Rainfall registered at the Botanic Gardens during March totalled 1.34 inch, spread over nine days.

Moscow, April 2.
Mr. Alan Monkhouse and Mr. Charles Nordwall, two of the British employees of Metropolitan Vickers who were arrested by the OGPU and provisionally released, have been formally charged with military and economic espionage, wrecking activities and bribery.

The other four Englishmen, Messrs. Thorton (chief construction engineer), MacDonald, Cushny and Gregory are not mentioned in the charges, but it is now clear that all six will be tried by the Soviet courts.

The British Charge D'Affaires visited the imprisoned men in the presence of M. Vishinsky, the Public Prosecutor, to-day and he stated that all are in normal health.

It is rumoured in Moscow that the staff of the British Embassy is packing, but Reuter is authoritatively informed that there is no foundation for the suggestion that the British diplomatic staff is leaving or is contemplating leaving. The position has not changed.

REPLY TO BRITISH CRITICISM

The leading Moscow newspapers, Izvestia and Pravda, publish scathing editorials in reply to British criticism of the U.S.S.R. in connection with the arrest and detention of the six British engineers.
"This case," says Izvestia, "has called forth a savage wailing from the British imperialist press, which is demanding a rupture of trade and even diplomatic relations. 'Only a demand for war is lacking.' The basic thesis of the British imperialist press that any question of the guilt of the British engineers is precluded is largely hysteria. The attempt to impress the world with the conviction that Englishmen are incapable of committing crime is not only contrary to common sense but also to a considerable body of facts recently recorded in British courts."

ENGINEERS' POSITION.

"When signing contracts with our authorities," Izvestia continues, "the British engineers were aware that there existed no special judicial organs for foreigners in the U.S.S.R. Those against whom well-founded charges are found at the preliminary investigation will be prosecuted. If the court finds the charges unproven it will be obliged to set the accused free. If the charges are proven sentence will be executed against the guilty in accordance with law."

"If the British press imagines that the Soviet Government is to be frightened by threats, it little knows the history of the Soviet Union. Threats of a rupture of trade relations are not serious, for our benefits from trade with Britain are no greater than those of the British bourgeoisie."

NOTHING NEW.

"If a number of dihard organs go so far as to threaten a rupture of diplomatic relations, we recall to their memory that such relations were severed once before, but the losses therefrom were sustained only by Britain."

"Furthermore," proceeds the paper, "these gentlemen should reflect upon the light these threats throw on British avowals that they are lovers of peace. The instability of the situation in Europe and elsewhere is well known. It is equally well known that the purpose of these British threats is to give a fresh impulse to forces obviously directed in an opposite direction to the preservation of peace."

TIMES LAMPOONED.

Izvestia then directs attention specifically to The Times, which expressed the hope that the U.S.

Government would bear in mind the Moscow case when considering the establishment of relations with the Soviet Union. "Gentlemen,—to utter such profoundly secret thoughts aloud and so crudely is unheard of. Someone may get the idea you are apprehensive of Soviet-American relations as a means of strengthening peace in the Far East."

"And what is to be thought," the paper asks, "of those British circles which speculate as to the possibility of an aggravation of Anglo-Soviet relations giving courage to certain 'friends of peace' in Germany?"

NOT TO BE SCARED.

"The Soviet Union," goes on Izvestia, "will not permit itself to be scared. It values greatly economic and diplomatic relations with Great Britain but will never allow threats to coerce it into actions it considers wrong." In the conflict that has arisen over the arrest of the British engineers the Soviet Union has shown more calm than the British imperialists.

"With goodwill on both sides—and the Soviet Union has proven its goodwill from the very beginning—and taking facts as they are, there exists either the guilt or innocence of the British engineers. The latter's confinement by the O.G.P.U. has been humane and better than imprisonment in the Tower of London was, and it should not influence either trade or political relations between two large countries."

AFRAID OF PUBLICITY.

Brindisi, Apr. 3.
The famous French aviator, Mlle. Maryse Hiltz, who left Paris on Saturday in an attempt to fly her 300 h.p. Farman-Gnome machine to Japan, via India, Hanoi and Shanghai, arrived at Brindisi on Saturday evening and left early yesterday for Aleppo.
Mlle. Hiltz has already flown from France to Saigon and from France to Madagascar. She is also the holder of the world's altitude record for women, 32,118 feet.—Reuter.

CHINWANGTAO BOMBING

Peking, Apr. 3.
Unconfirmed Chinese reports suggest that a situation of extreme tension is developing at Chinwangtao where the Japanese are said to have landed blue-jackets during the week-end.

It is also alleged that several Japanese aeroplanes appeared over the Chinese city and dropped a number of bombs, causing no casualties and little material damage.

Further Japanese demonstrations are being carried out, according to Chinese reports, at Shih Ho and Haiyang, which have been subjected to bombardment from Japanese warships lying off the coast and to aerial bombardment.

Preparations are being made in anticipation of a Japanese infantry attack on Shih Ho.—Special.

TERRIFIC AERIAL BOMBARDMENT

Peking, April 3.
Chinese press reports state that Shihmenchai was evacuated by the Chinese troops following a terrific aerial bombardment on Saturday.

It is stated that the Japanese are bombing inside the Great Wall as far as Haiyang, two miles to the north of Chinwangtao, and very near the Kailan mines.

Chinese reports also state that Japanese artillery is shelling the Chinese positions on the right bank of the Shih Ho.—Reuter.

THE SECOND TEST ABANDONED

CONTINUOUS RAIN ENDS GAME

Auckland, Apr. 3.
Rain may rob England of what appeared to be the prospect of an easy victory in the Second Test.
Rain in the early morning delayed the start. When Mills and Whitelaw at last went out they added eight runs to the overnight total, after which the rain again descended and it was decided to take lunch.—Reuter.

Later.
Continuous rain caused the abandonment of the match. The M.C.C. team are leaving for England aboard the Aorangi tomorrow, sailing at 11 a.m.

Closing scores were:
New Zealand—1st Innings: 158 (Dempster 83 not out) England: 548 for 7 declared (Hammond 336 not out)
New Zealand—2nd Innings: 11 Mills not out 11 Whitelaw not out 15

A BROADWAY TRAGEDY

New York, April 2.
Mr. Frank Theodore Hulsmit, the well-known public utilities magnate, died to-day ten hours after falling from a fifth floor room in an hotel in Broadway.

He had been President of the American States Securities Corporation since 1926 and of the American Commonwealth Power Corporation since 1927.

New York, Apr. 2.
The Aguacaliente Handicap over a mile and a quarter, valued at $350,000, was won to-day by Mr. Norman Church's Gallant Sir, with Waylayer second and Lemon Hills third.—Reuter.

Gallant Sir was favourite at four to three on and well justified the popular support.

He came from behind in the home stretch to win by three-quarters of a length and to establish a new track record of 2 minutes 23/5th seconds, beating Phar Lap's 2 minutes 22 3/5th seconds last year.
Waylayer, at odds of 21/10, beat Lemon Hill, backed at 13/5, by two lengths.—Reuter.

Bangkok, Apr. 3.
A Royal Decree, countersigned by all Ministers, provides for the dissolution of the Assembly. A State Council has been appointed which will carry on the government until an election can be held under the new Constitution.

The steps have been taken as the result of strong pressure by a large number of members of the Assembly for the adoption of Communism in the ownership of land. The majority of the assembly consists of the extremists of the nominated party which effected the revolution in June last year.—Reuter.

Shanghai, April 3.

The annual cross-country race in Shanghai yesterday attracted a strong entry and resulted in a win for Private Gregg, of the East Lancashires.

Gregg completed the six-mile course in record time, recording 31 minutes 47 seconds.

The team championship was gained by the Russian Athletic Association, with the European French Forces team second and the East Lancashires third.

The best packing team was that of the Argyll and Sutherland Highlanders, who got four men home together, occupying twelfth, thirteenth, fourteenth and fifteenth places.

In all there were eighty-seven entrants and a large crowd watched the finish.—Reuter.

FATAL MOTOR MISHAP

LAD RUNS INTO A BUS

A fatal motor mishap occurred yesterday at Yumati, when Tse Shu-kum, aged 32, was run over by a bus and received injuries from which he died.

The victim is said to have suddenly appeared from under the verandah and got into the way of the vehicle which was travelling in Reclamation Street and approaching the intersection of Public Square Street. The driver was unable to pull up in time. The lad was rushed to hospital but died on the way.

AIR SERVICE IN WEST COUNTRY

REGULAR DAILY JOURNEYS

(Special to "Telegraph")

London, Apr. 3.
The first air service in England to be operated by a railway company is to be inaugurated on April 12 by the Great Western Railway Company.

The service will be confined for the present to the west of England. A daily air service is to be established next week between Cardiff, Torquay and Teignmouth.

The journey will take about forty-five minutes as compared with the four hours' journey by railway under ordinary conditions.

The fares will be £3 for a single trip and £5 for a return.

The heavy baggage for passengers will be conveyed by rail without extra charge.

Imperial Airways Limited have agreed to supply the G.W.R. with a three-engined aeroplane, a pilot and the necessary ground staff for the new service.—Reuter.

SALE OF TAI PING BUILDING

BIG CITY PROPERTY DEAL

One of the biggest property deals of the year has been completed with the sale of the Tai Ping Building, situated on Queen's Road Central, between the Kayamally Building and Asia Life Building, by Mr. Li Tse-long, the well known Chinese banker of the Bank of East Asia to Mr. Fox Hau-tak, of Canton.

It is understood that the purchase price was $700,000. The Tai Ping Building, which occupies over 6,000 square feet is otherwise known as Nos. 16, 18 and 18A, Queen's Road Central, and is among the newly-erected cement concrete office buildings in the Colony's main street.

The ground floor premises are occupied by the Prince's Cafe and the Canadian Cafe, while its upper floors are used as offices for many firms, both Chinese and foreign.

Mr. Fox Hau-tak is a familiar figure in commercial life in Canton with large commercial interests in Honam.

BUS ACCIDENT

HUSBAND "WANTED" BY POLICE

The police are searching for a labourer, husband of Lam Kiu, aged 32, when he is alleged to have grievously injured in an altercation over domestic matters yesterday at Yumati.

Yip Ling, 60-year-old watchman, who is said to have interfered, was also attacked, it is alleged, by the same man with a chopper.

THE WORLD OF WOMEN

Ruffles Lend Springlike Touch. GLORIFYING YOURSELF.

Hollywood.
Modified Letty Lynton ruffles and plain necklines give a light, springlike look to new evening things the stars are wearing.

At the Mayfair Club party at the Hotel Billmore in Los Angeles, Lois Wilson wore a very becoming white dress, with triple ruffles around the armholes, giving a dainty look to her shoulders, and no jewelry except a handsome little circular diamond clip right in front. It was the new off-the-floor length, a favorite for dancing.

Lillian Harvey, British star, wore a white crepe dress with beaded bodice and a single, flaring, graduated ruffle of the beaded crepe over each shoulder. It had a deep V in the back, and also in the front.

Seeing Stars

Anita Louise dancing at the Coconut Grove with John Farrow, wearing a hyacinth blue tulle gown. The skirt flared at the bottom, and below a molded hipline, and was decorated with swirls of blistered silk ribbon of the same shade. For a wrap she wore an old rose cape which was quite short.

Sandra Shaw, dining at the Brown Derby with Bruce Cabot, wearing a white evening gown, high in front and cut to the waist in the back, and topped by a very short white coat that had enormous leg-o-mutton sleeves.

Lois Wilson.

THE WRONG TOUCH.

Emphasise Your Good Points.

Many women who expend a considerable amount of time and thought upon their make-up and general appearance lose half the effect they intend to convey simply as a result of making mistakes in the important art of emphasis. Either they completely overlook their best features, with the result that other people overlook them also. Or else they draw attention to those amongst their characteristics which least deserve attention.

I quite recently came across a striking instance of both these errors in the same woman. She was extremely well built and graceful with but two ugly features—her wrists. It seemed by some very odd perversity, therefore, that she chose to wear bracelets on both arms.

These drew attention at once to the lack of beauty they adorned, while had she been wise enough to dismiss bracelets from her jewelry case the thickness of her wrists would, no doubt, have passed unnoticed.

Her other mistake—the mistake of omission—lay in her eyebrows. These were in themselves perfect. They had obviously been plucked, yet they were narrow and tended upwards towards the temples in a manner which many of us these days are striving, artificially, to emulate.

But they were too pale to be really striking and they had not been darkened. So this woman who was extremely well groomed, and obviously spared no consideration on her appearance had created a bad effect and neglected a good one, simply by again neglecting to study emphasis. If she

Errors of this sort are to be seen every day. Women with pale eyes make up their lashes so thickly that they stand out in little dark spikes very startling by contrast. When obviously, they should be darkened lightly and unobtrusively.

Women with narrow foreheads are apt to make their eyebrows too emphatic, thus making the forehead look narrower than ever. Ears, very often, that have nothing to commend them, are hung with earrings rich and strange, throat that are a little too big or a little too wrinkled or a little too yellow are draped in very conspicuous beads, and hands whose fingers, being short and fat, are the despair of their owners, find themselves heavily ringed and their nails varnished to scarlet.

It is with hands that the most frequent mistakes are made. Long, well-shaped hands and fingers are improved by a few rings, and, if necessary, a rather startling manicure. But a hand that is a victim of chilblains should have no rings beyond a wedding or engagement ring. And the nails should be well manicured but very discreetly so.

Now that "Beauty Spot" eye veils are popular we have a chance of seeing how very becoming a beauty spot is. There is nothing like it for emphasising a good feature, and there is absolutely no reason why a small velvet beauty spot should not always be worn. Good eyes are a thousand times enhanced by an adornment of this kind as is also a well-shaped mouth. Also, a beauty spot placed beside either of these two features tends to draw the attention away from the nose. A boon to many women, no doubt, as the nose is by common repute, the most common "bad" feature!—Honor E. M. Wyatt.

By Alicia Hart

No utterly fatigued woman can look beautiful. Yet only one woman out of a hundred, or even more, knows how to save herself from getting strained, tired and even cross-looking.

It requires an intelligent program to manage to salvage some peace of mind from a hard day's work, either at home or the office or store.

One place where business women make a big mistake is in lunching with someone every single noon.

If it is someone interesting, preferably of the opposite sex, then it seems to work out better. If it is just anyone about the office or about town who happens to come along or phone or ask you, then it is a mistake.

Lunch alone. Read a good magazine. Read the papers. Relax and just think—it can be done with a little practice.

When you have a given time in which to lunch, there is bound to be strain in trying to meet a friend, have time enough to talk and still get back in time.

If you can take a leisurely lunch period, time enough to wash up, make up, and saunter out, order and eat in unhurried manner and relax perfectly, you will be so much more rested, so much more untroubled and so much better looking in the afternoon, that it is worth considering.

Nothing fatigues you more than a bore, and particularly at meal-time. Nothing is harder on the nerves than a heated foursome at lunch where everybody talks at once, where you get all on edge trying to get your say. The "business at lunch" habit is perhaps one of the most disastrous to placid living that we have. And it is strictly an American evil. Foreigners never dash about, trying to meet business appointments and solve problems while they eat.

Why not begin taking luncheon by yourself for a week to try things out? If you don't feel more relaxed, if you don't actually look better and have more pep, then I am mistaken.

This smart kid shoe has the dressmaker touch of stitching and buttons so popular on sheer-woolen dresses. Its comfort is insured by its material—kid—and by its medium height heel.

JUVENILE HAWKING NUISANCE.

MAGISTRATE SUGGESTS CANING "ON THE SPOT"

An effective method of stopping the nuisance caused by juveniles hawking newspapers in the streets, was suggested by Mr. Wynne-Jones in the Central Police Court on Saturday when he dealt with the weekly batch of offenders. There were 21 in all. Those over 14 years of age were fined $1 or two strokes with the cane, while the remainder were generally cautioned.

"What I think would be the most effective way," remarked his Worship, "although it probably could not be done, is for me to go out with you, Inspector Carey, armed with a cane, and thrash these lads on the spot."

Sub-Inspector Carey mentioned the Police were being bombarded with complaints. "The P.M.G. is grumbling about these pests outside the main door of the Post Office," he said. "The other day, a Chinese civilian slapped two of the boys."

"Anything known about these shrimps?" asked Mr. Wynne-Jones in dealing with the first batch. "They are a fresh bag, eh?"

One of the older lads said he had run away from his home in the country because his father caned him so much. "I think you had better try two of our you had better try two of our like them," Mr. Wynne-Jones remarked waving a warning cane in his hand.

To the third bunch of lads, Mr. Wynne-Jones held the cane up, stating "I have a big Sergeant here and I am going to let him loose on you the next time."

SPOTLIGHT

CHAPTER XLII

Dick and Sheila followed Dorothy to the curb and saw her into her car. Dorothy knew Dick wanted to talk to Sheila alone and did not press her invitation that they should come with her. After a few moments' banter Dorothy said "good-night" and the huge limousine disappeared silently around the corner.

Sheila watched, almost wistfully. Was it fair that she and Eve and Tillie and dozens of others had to toil for every cent they owned when some girls had so much and did nothing to deserve it? Not that Sheila begrudged Dorothy Trevor her fortune. Nor did she ordinarily bewail her own fate. Tonight, however, Sheila was tired. It seemed unfair that this other girl should have everything in the world to make for happiness while Sheila herself must toil and save and sacrifice. No, it didn't seem fair.

"Would you like a taxi," he asked, "or shall we take the bus? I don't think it will be crowded at this hour. Wonderful car Dorothy has, don't you think so?"

"It's marvelous," Sheila agreed. "Foreign, isn't it? I've never seen one like it."

Dick told her the car bore a French trade name and was extremely expensive. "The whole family thinks it's shocking the way that kid spends money," he went on. "But after all it's hers. I guess she has the right to do as she pleases with it."

They started walking slowly to-

ward Fifth Avenue. The street was almost deserted except for a few pedestrians. Now and then a taxicab rolled past and in the distance a lumbering bus was disappearing.

"Does Dorothy have lots of money?" Sheila asked. "I know she's considered one of Henri's best customers."

Dick nodded. "Oh, yes, she has money, all right. More than she can spend. It's all in her own name, too. Her father was Warren Trevor. Maybe you've heard of him. Built up an enormous fortune on Wall Street and died while he was still comparatively young. He left the entire fortune to Dorothy."

"She doesn't seem a bit of a snob," mused Sheila.

"Oh, she's not," Dick spoke loyally. His cousin, for all their playful quarreling during the evening, occupied a warm spot in his heart. "She isn't in the least bit snobbish. Why should she be? She's always had money and doesn't think anything about it. Dorothy's a little thoroughbred."

"Well, I like her," Sheila agreed. "She's different from anyone I've ever met and I like the way she does things. She's pretty, too. Money hasn't spoiled her."

They boarded a bus and presently were skirting the north boundary of Central Park. The little pond on which sailors continue their aquatic propensities while on shore leave, twinkled back at them. Here and there a tiny rowboat rocked on the rippling water.

H.W. CORLEY

They reached Riverside Drive, the great bus lumbering on and roaring as it went. Jersey lay girdled with lights across the stretch of the Hudson.

"I like your river better than this one," Sheila said impulsively. The silence had grown tense. Dick seemed to be on the verge of some sort of declaration and Sheila was afraid to hear it.

The bus clattered into upper Broadway. Cruising taxis, a strolling couple or two were the only signs of life here. The bus dipped into the hollow of 157th street, rose again with the Heights and halted with a jerk in the 170's. Sheila rose and clambered down the steps, followed by Dick.

They walked down the street toward the apartment building where the Sampers made their home.

Now they were on the doorstep of the building. "I don't know," Sheila hesitated. "I may. The job at Henri's is temporary, of course. Trevor got it for me, by the way, in case you didn't guess it. It's seasonal work, though."

and Henri won't need me very long. I hope I get a part in a show soon."

"Do you still dislike the idea of playing on Broadway?" asked Dick without meeting the girl's eyes.

Sheila glanced away hastily. "I don't know. Beggars can't be choosers. I mean," she went on quickly, "that show business is like everything else. It's in a bad way now. Everybody has to take what they can get and I'll have to do the same."

"There's always Mandrake," Dick suggested thoughtfully. "I doubt if he'd give me anything now."

Sheila's voice was lifeless, and Dick did not pursue the subject further. He had not seen Mandrake for weeks. Perhaps it was true that the producer's interest in Sheila had waned. She had declined to appear on Broadway in a part other talented dancers would have clamored for. Mandrake might have decided to waste no further thought on her, considering her too temperamental. Still there was a chance that something could be done. Dick decided privately to call on Mandrake casually some day soon and find out. It could do no harm and it might help Sheila.

"If Mandrake had a good part I think he'd give it to Frances Barton," the girl added.

"But she's not such a wonderful dancer."

"She's very good, Dick, as a matter of fact. And she's built up a name for herself."

That was what so many veterans of the stage had told Sheila she should do. Stay in New York instead of going on the road. With a part for herself in a Broadway show where the critics would see her. That was the way to success on the stage. It would mean better parts and a higher salary for her. McKee, the comedian in the "Heigh-ho" company, had told her that. Others had said that same thing and Sheila, sure that she knew what she wanted and that it was not Broadway fame, had refused to listen.

She and Dick parted without making any definite arrangements to meet again. Somehow this hurt Sheila. She knew that she had treated Dick badly. Still to have him appear neglectful was a blow.

In her own room, evading the questions of the sharp-eyed Eve who had slid into bed a few moments earlier, Sheila undressed and reflected on all this. It was probably true that Dick was treating her exactly as she deserved. Then, too, the date with him tonight had not really been a date at all. Dorothy had arranged it and Dick had been helpless to escape.

Brushing her hair, dabbing her face with cream to cleanse it, bathing her tired body in hot water, Sheila was at last ready for bed. Eve's bright, bird-like eyes looked up at her from across the room.

"Anything wrong, Sheila?" she asked sympathetically.

"No. Go to sleep like a good child!"

WUCHOW NOTES

EXTENDED

In continuing its building programme, the Kwangsi University is erecting another large building which will greatly add to the housing accommodation of the institution. Under the able management of Dr. Ma, the Kwangsi University has made great strides during the last few years. A number of buildings have been erected and the campus at present is spread over considerable territory. Provision is made for sports and athletics. The teaching staff is composed of a very competent faculty, which includes two European professors.

Reports from the Penx Nam district bring the news that the military is making renewed efforts to stamp out banditry in this section of the Province. A detachment of soldiers returned the early part of the week with a number of prisoners, who were well shakled. The prisoners consisted of both men and women, many of whom were wounded, and showed signs of having suffered great hardship.

FIDUCIARY ISSUE

FINANCES REFLECTED IN
RETURN TO NORMALCY

London, Apr. 1. The Treasury authority under which the Bank of England was empowered to issue an additional £15,000,000 of notes not covered by gold expired last night, and as the Bank did not ask for a renewal of authority, the fiduciary issue reverts to the normal statutory amount of £250,000,000.

The increase to £275,000,000 dates from September, 1931, when the Gold Standard was suspended.

The reason for non-action on the part of the Bank is to be found in its recent big acquisition of gold. Since January, when the present influx of gold began, the Bank of England has acquired nearly $64,000,000, and the additional gold acquired has increased the metal cover for the note issue and renders the increase in confidence cover unnecessary.

Securities Steady. The Treasury returns had little effect this morning upon gilt-edged securities, which remained steady with the War Loan 3½ per cent at 101-1/16. Sterling, on New York opened at $3.42½.—British Wireless.

WARSHIPS COLLIDE.

AMERICAN FLAGSHIP IN MISHAP AT SHANGHAI

Shanghai, Apr. 1. The French gunboat Francis Garnier was badly holed amidstships as the result of a collision in the harbour at Shanghai this afternoon, with the United States Asiatic Squadron Flagship, Houston which had just arrived from Manila, with Admiral Taylor aboard.

The mishap took place near Garden Bridge. Tug boats hurried to the scene and assisted the Francis Garnier which was shipping water fast.

Temporary repairs were quickly effected. No casualties resulted from the mishap on either ship.

The U.S.S. Houston was only slightly damaged.—Reuter. The Francis Garnier was constructed specially for duty on the Lower Yangtze, and has been stationed in the Far East for some years. It has a displacement of 630 tons and a complement of 103.

The U.S.S. Houston is the flagship of the U. S. Asiatic Fleet, and visited Hongkong six months ago. It is due to arrive here on the return trip from Shanghai to Manila in about a fortnight.

AVIATION IN CHINA.

PAN-AMERICAN CORPORATION ACQUIRE MORE STOCK

New York, Apr. 1.

The Pan-American Airways Company announces the acquisition of 45 per cent. of the capital stock of the China National Aviation Corporation.

The China National Aviation Corporation is a Sino-American controlled concern, operating airlines between Shanghai, Nanking, and the principal cities in North China, particularly those on the Yangtze River.—Reuter.

LIGHT BLUES WIN.

Tenth Successive Triumph in Boat Race.

EVENT DESCRIBED.

London, Apr. 1.

For the tenth year in succession, has setting a record, Cambridge won the annual Varsity boat race, defeating Oxford by two lengths and a quarter.

The official time was 20 mins. 57 secs.

The weather was fine but somewhat dull, although the sun burst through at intervals. The wind was almost due west, and the water was choppy.

Cambridge won the toss and chose the Surrey side, which would give them an advantage for the four-mile race. Both boats had spins in the morning and were watched by the usual big crowds.

Although the race was scheduled to start at 4 p.m., it was not until 4.03 p.m. when the gun went off. Both crews were striking 36 and were level at the boat-houses when Oxford, pulling splendidly, took a slight lead at Beverley Brook.

Oxford maintained their lead at Craven Steps and Valence, and after the race had been in progress for a mile, were still slightly ahead. At Crabtree, there was a great struggle. Past Crabtree, the Light Blues working up to 30 compared to Oxford's 28, took the lead by half a length at Harrods.

The Light Blues' lead was due to a fine spurt as the boats were approaching Harrods.

Cambridge increased their lead to a length at Lead Mills, but Oxford reduced it to three quarters.

At the two-mile mark, both crews were rowing strenuously.

The position was the same at Doves.

Lead increased.

Although the Dark Blues' pulled up to 30, which was the same as Cambridge, the latter increased their lead to a length at Hall. Both were rowing strongly, and with a great effort Oxford reduced the Light Blues' lead to three quarters of a length at Chiswick Eyot.

Past Chiswick Eyot, Cambridge once again increased their lead and at Chiswick Steps were a length ahead.

Oxford spurred and regained a quarter of a length, but from Dukes Meadows Cambridge gradually drew away. At the three-mile mark, they were leading by one and three quarters of a length.

At Bulls Head, Cambridge led by nearly two lengths, which was maintained past Barnes Bridge and White Hart, both crews striking 32.

Oxford's Galland Bid.

After Barnes Bridge, Oxford, who were favoured to the extent of a length at the bend, made a gallant bid to remedy their desperate plight and pursued unfatiguedly, but made little impression on Cambridge who, without increasing their striking, held off their rivals somewhat easily.

Cambridge have now 44 wins and Oxford 40.—Reuter.

TWO SHOT DEAD IN COURSE OF OPERATIONS

Berlin, Apr. 2.

The anti-Jewish boycott was badly organised in Berlin, so that Jewish shops in the suburbs are open and are not being molested.

The boycott is stricter elsewhere, but the only serious incident reported occurred at Kiel, where a Nazi picket was killed by a revolver shot from a furniture shop. Storm troops immediately fired a volley into windows, and forced an entrance, arresting the proprietor's son, who allegedly fired the shot. The prisoner was taken to the police station and shot dead by some persons' whom the police admitted to his cell.—Reuter's Special.

Resumption Unlikely.

Munich, Apr. 2.

Von Streicher, the leader of the boycott, stated to-night that messages from abroad indicated that it will not be necessary to resume the boycott on April 5.—Reuter's Special.

SCHOOLS & HISTORY

At a moment in the world's
history when national and racial
prejudices are much in evidence
on all hands, more than passing
interest attaches to a movement
being undertaken in the Scandinavian countries by a society
called "Norden." The aim of
this body is to endeavour to get
the larger historical facts of life
correctly reflected in school text
books. The movement has some significance from the fact that
many wars have been fought
among these countries and much territory has changed hands.
They have even had Kings in common and they have been torn by reciprocal jealousies.
To develop a better attitude the delegates of the society's history
instruction committees met in Stockholm and decided to select
specialists from each country to examine textbooks and recommend whatever changes may be deemed needed. The expense of
the revisions will be borne by
the Norden Society and the work
is expected to be finished before
the end of next summer. Furthermore, permanent boards will
be appointed in each country to represent the society and to inspect future proposed textbooks,
so that publishers and school
committees may feel assured as to the fairness of what they are offer the children. Finally, the society will publish special bibliographies and study guides for advanced research workers in history. This work will be done in co-operation with the International Committee of Historians, and gradually other nations may take similar action.
This is surely a field where much
can be done. For instance, all American school texts on the War for Independence might be
checked by British historians,
and vice versa, or the chapters
in the World War and Franco-
Prussian War in French and German books might be subject
to examination and possible revision by an international body,
preferably affiliated with the League of Nations. Would not
considerable progress be made toward that mental disarm-ment which must precede physical disarmament? It is the children of to-day who will vote to-morrow. There is, of course,

a tendency in the preparation
of school history books towards
the extolling of national glory,
and to get a mistake in fact corrected, when it favours the national interest or vanity, is far
from easy. But it is along the lines of courageous and fair
treatment of facts that hope for
the wise future education of
young people lies.

Sanctions and Peace

Whatever Japan may believe,
the League of Nations' decision
regarding her actions in Manchuria, was rendered by a disinterested and impartial jury.
The League report was no
ultimatum of a diplomatic cabal,
no device to maintain a balance
of power. It was the considered
judgment of a united world,
taken not in anger but with
greatest reluctance and only after seventeen months of investigation and pleading. And
it carries also the force of the
nations' renunciation of war as
an instrument of policy voiced
in the Kellogg pact. Japan
herself has subscribed to these high purposes. And sooner or later the false fervour of con-
quest—that old blinder of nations—will abate in Japan and
her people will recognise the
quality and force of the judgment passed by forty-two nations in Geneva and since approved "in general" by the United States. Meanwhile the
other nations have need further to purify and clarify their
purposes. Can they with con-
Japan and China, "You must stop this slaughter," while at the same time putting into their hands—at a profit—the weapons
with which to prolong it? Yet
they must be wise in halting the
wretched traffic in arms. An embargo upon both belligerents
in the Far East, such as Britain declared temporarily, works
out to the advantage of the
aggressor, for Japan has munitions factories which can supply most of her requirements,
while China has not. Again—
Are the other nations strong enough and sincere
enough in the desire to organise
peace that they are ready to make some sacrifices to carry
out their announced purpose?
So far they have shown their faith only in words. They ask an aggressor to give up its conquest; what are they willing to give up to enforce their demand? To establish a method of preventing war, will they run the risk of applying an embargo which might bring war upon themselves? If the nations' peace purposes are pure enough and firm enough, their moral might should suffice.

A Monumental Issue

The writer of a letter to The Times recently hazarded a daring guess that the reason the
ancient Romans inscribed their
monuments in Latin is that Latin
was their native language.
Now, Englishmen have a native
language. Why, then, do they not use it on their public buildings and memorials instead of
so often employing a tongue that
ninety-nine people out of a hundred cannot understand?
There is some justice in the complaint. When in Rome, do as the Romans do, may on occasion be a sound piece of advice;
but there seems little point in doing as the Romans did, when in London, Birmingham or Leeds. Yet in one respect Latin
fits in better with the monu-
mental style of prose than does English. A chief necessity for
stone inscriptions is brevity.
It does not find prepositions pre-
possessing; the definite article
it definitely rejects. A case can,
therefore, be made out for Latin
inscriptions. But care should be taken to see that the case is correct. If Cicero were entertained at Buckingham Palace, and fancied an after-dinner stroll in the Mall, the greatest possible care would have to be taken to keep him engaged in earnest conversation, lest his eyes glance up at the Admiralty Arch, which faces
the Palace and has on it the curious information that it was erected by 1910 agreeable citizens.—"Clives." Gratissimii: MDCCCXX. Cicero, being a man
of affairs as well as a scholar,
would doubtless perceive that
the inscription was intended to
say that the arch had been built
by grateful citizens in 1910.

THE CABARET QUESTION

By the Controversialist

The intending Controversialist
engaging a knotty problem like
the Great Cabaret Question inevitably is heckled by two questions, "Do you dance?" and "Have
you been to a Cabaret?" Both
difficult to answer, the first with-
out unduly flattering himself and
the second sounding so terribly
like an accusation and a reproach.
Vexatious, they may be summarily
dismissed as being prompted by an idle and curious mind but for forum etiquette and usage demanding that a question however
irrelevant be given attention. It
is conceded therefore that dancing,
or the manner in which it is
executed, is largely a matter of personal predilections and varies as
much as the so-called expert
opinions held on it. The second
query is foolish, as seeming to imply that the Controversialist could
have adventured into a weighty
problem without the preliminary
survey demanded for a judicial
and constructive contribution.
Credentials furnished, the Con-
troversialist may be now permitted
to enter the forum without further
restraint.

Now the Cabaret Question although its materialisation into the
local form has impressed as a recent
development, is by no means new.
King Solomon, to whom many
social amenities have been traced,
is credited with having held the
first Cabaret although on some-
what restricted and monopolistic
lines. Passing down the ages we
note, en passant, in the great tribal
dances a joint community effort to provide an inexpensive cabaret
amusement and recreation for old and young alike, entailing a minimum of skill in the performance of the few gyrations for
the satisfaction of a primordial
urge. Social conditions have
since undergone a radical change,
and with a new order supplanting
the old, a pastime dating back to
the greatest antiquity, has become
restricted.

The need for relaxation of
social strictures with increased
facilities for this form of recreation has in one direction been
identified in some quarters as
"bachelor isolation." It is an old cry. Long ago, in the Stone Age, it was heard over the wailing and men, so situated, then went forth a-hunting with club
and spear for the congenial companionship of the other sex.
That men have since learned subtler means is represented as so
much polish and civilization
gained, but the congregational
instinct peculiar to the species
remains as a restless urge for
those with fewer opportunities.

When therefore the cry of
"bachelor isolation" arose in similar anguished strains in the Colony a few years ago, to the
accompaniment of the refrain
"nowhere to go," some look to this as a sure indication of a need, a confirmation of the belief that Hongkong, busy hive of industry
by day, was inordinately a quiet
and dark place by night. By an
ingenious process of reasoning, a
case for a dancing hall was made
out, but at the first bare mention
of "cabaret" a condemnation and
chorus of "bahs" was provoked
which had the effect of silenc-
ing further inopportunities. A scheme to couple the scheme to the business of a popular city cafe

was nipped in the bud.

It was left to an astute Oriental
to insert the thin end of the wedge
and apply the pressure that has
since opened the door to a profitable business. To trace the evolution of the scheme is interesting. The man who thought
out the Great Academy Plan with-
in the capacity of his own genius
may not then have had a full
and so contented himself with the
basic structure, while leaving to
others the full development.
Such has been the history of great
inventions, and has held good in
this case which has taken a number of years to reach its present
stage of perfection. At the commencement we had simply the
"dancing club" where members of
both sexes, and their friends
foregathered for indulging in a rational recreation. Next, the
"dancing instructress" for the
mass now beginning to like the
art, fitted into the picture. The rest is well-known history. Official strictures were complied
with in theory if not in fact, and
the word "academy" has acquired
a new definition in the local
dictionary. But call it by the term of "academy, school, college
or institution," whatever the fancy,
we have here the inner form of a cabaret dressed in scholastic
garb.

Success and seeming immunity
from official interferences has encouraged emulation and these so-
called academies have acquired a
mush-room growth. Nightly, saxa-phones blared forth above the roar of city traffic and festoons of
multi-coloured lights over the
house-stops pointed the way to
syncopeated revelry.

To have increased in such numbers could not have been possible
without the necessary clientele,
and the "popular support" for the
undertaking seems to have been
justified by the crowds thronging
these places nightly.

The Controversialist has sketch-
ed all too briefly, the "historical
aspect" of the subject, and leaving it to be developed at a later
stage, will now take the issue
raised by these cabarets and as
disclosed in the recent controversy. This may be defined by
the progressive stages (a) does
an undertaking of the character
fulfil a genuine social or public
need; (b) if it does fulfil such a
need, is it liable to abuses; (c) if
such abuses tend to a social evil
having particular regard to, a
place like Hongkong; and (d) if
effective control can always be supervised in the interests of a well-ordered Colony?

The reply to the questions, excepting the last, has been facilitated by the experimental stage, in
effect, to which the local cabaret
has been put in the fairly long
period before the authorities have
decided to legislate in the matter.
In our next article we will take a
closer inspection of the subject,
and with the Controversialist
make an incursion into one of
these resorts, selecting at hap-
hazard and with no mind to
discriminate either because we have heard or seen something of
its advantage or disadvantage, or
because we have been told that it
is the best or worst of its kind.

"Now, get this, you mug! I don't want to have to rip you apart from any clinches."

By Eddie "Taiwan" Kelly.

We've been insulted. We've
been grossly insulted, and we're
here to-day to expose the whole
business and place a blot on
someone's escutcheon.

We want to tell you right here
and now that of all the brilliant
journalists who have disgraced
themselves by coming East, we
... No, no! Modesty prevents
us from going further.

Anyway, we're right at the top
of the tree, if you get the idea.
Even Floyd Gibbons and Arthur
Brisbane look up to us.

We are two inches taller
than either of those gentle-
men.

But to get back to this insult.
Only the other day, His Excellency, Lieutenant Colonel Antonio Jose Bernades de Miranda,
arrived in Hongkong.

"Go," said the Editor, "and see
His X."

We set out, and having successfully negotiated the Hong-
kong Hotel and Hotel Cecil,
arrived safely and soberly at Queen's Pier.

A cohort of police bore down on
us. The following conversation
took place.

The Inspector: You get out of
party.

Mr. Kelly: You're telling us.

The Inspector: I'm telling you.

Mr. Kelly: Well, piker, get the
low-down on this (producing
police pass printed in English,
American, Chinese, Hindustani,
Urdu, and Can do.)

The Inspector: On your way,
bozo. That's no good here.

Mr. Kelly: Would er—$10.
fix things.

The Inspector: On your way,
small change, before I spend you.

So we went. It might sound
rather foolish and ineffectual
to our Great and Admiring Public,
but we reckon it's a lot of dirty
names.

Queen's Pier to meet His Ex.,
and what we would have bit them for
would have been a shame.

After all, what's a coupler
dollars between pals.

IN A PEAKIAN GARDEN.

Somebody once said that the
only place for a philosopher to
gain knowledge was in a garden,
and when we last cut our lawn we
learned quite a number of things.
For instance, if the thing that
goes round inside a lawn mower
is too close to another thing that
stays still, the first thing does not
go round at all, and all that
happens is that the wheels make
two deep skid marks in the grass
that would make a traffic police-
man looking for a clue whoop for
joy.

We once managed to make a clear
run of a couple of feet before we
heard that sickening crunch
which meant we had got to get
down and risk losing another
finger. But we claim no credit
for this. It was sheer luck.

The grass round the edge can
be cut with a pair of scissors,
providing nobody misses them
from the work-basket, and then
you come to the biggest problem.
You are now able to see that the
borders of the lawn where it
meets the flower-beds are not as
clearly defined as they should be,
and they have to be trimmed with
a spade.

We trimmed them, and when we
found that the sides of the lawn
were bent inwards like a bow, we
worked again at the corners, with
the result that this time the sides
were convex. We then remembered that a really good gardener
like myself always uses a couple
of twigs stuck in the ground with
a straight edge, and finally, after
working as meticulously as a
sculptor on a statue of Venus, we managed to get them practically
square.

Imagine our horror when we
found that by repeated trimming
we had reduced the size of that
lawn by nearly a yard all round.
We were out next day, and the
fah wong came. He waits until
he sees us disappear in a cloud of
dust round the corner then clocks
can find his own jobs without
reference to us. He likes, quiet,
easy jobs, that require a lot of
thought.

On our return he met us significantly wiping his brow. He explained that he had been tidy-
ing up, which means that he had
collected, one by one, a bushel of
dried leaves, and heaped them in
a spot where the first puff of wind
would scatter them and again make
some more work for him. He had also done some real work. He said that the edges of the lawn
had been very ragged, and that he
had trimmed them for us.

He had. Our lawn now looks
like a green raft floating in a
silent sea of newly turned earth.
Still, unless somebody else trims
it again it is large enough for
ping-pong; and, anyhow, it doesn't
take so long to roll.

CHATER BUNGALOW SITE

ARCHITECTS SUE LAND CO.

PLANS DISPUTE

A dispute regarding work done in the preparation of plans for houses to be erected on the Chater Bungalow Site, Kowloon, and involving a claim for $80,650 opened at the Supreme Court this morning before Mr. Justice Wood (acting Chief Justice), the parties concerned being Messrs. Raven and Basto, architects, of Prince's Building, who sued the Wo Lee Land Investment Co., of 6, Queen's Road Central, and Wo Lai-tin and Chau Yu-ting, partners therein.

Messrs. Raven and Basto are represented by Mr. Eldon Potter, K. C., and Mr. H. G. Sheldon (Instructing by Messrs. Hastings and Co.), and the defendants by Mr. F. C. Jenkin, K. C., and Mr. H. C. Macnamara (Instructed by Messrs. Wilkinson and Grist).

Opening the case for the plaintiffs, Mr. Potter stated that the defendants were a syndicate, members of which acquired Kowloon Inland Lot 611, which was better known as Chater Bungalow Site. The manager of the syndicate was Wo Lai-tin and the treasurer Chau Yu-ting, the claim being for professional services rendered in preparing building plans for 78 houses to be erected on the site, such plans being ordered by defendants. The defence would be that the plans were never ordered, and, if they were, the prices charged were not the proper prices.

SYNDICATE'S INTENTIONS.

On or about the 31st July, 1931, the syndicate acquired the land for the sum of eight lakhs and proceeded forthwith to take steps to develop it. It would appear that in the first instance the syndicate was prepared to sell the whole of the property as one lot, but it later appeared that they decided to build on the land themselves and dispose of the portions as built upon. They then discovered they would be able to dispose of the property piecemeal to individual purchasers. That was after the date the plaintiffs stated plans were ordered from them, namely September 1st.

Evidence showed that the prospective purchasers actually went to the plaintiffs' offices and saw the building plans. Early in August, 1931, plaintiffs were instructed to prepare lay-out plans and a few days later an interview took place between Mr. Raven, a man named Cheng Chiu-nam employed by plaintiffs and a partner in defendant company and Wo Lai-tin regarding the development of the site. Several letters also passed. One letter received stated that defendants had decided to adopt plaintiffs' alternative lay-out plans as a basis of their building scheme.

Throughout, Mr. Raven had not the slightest notion that the syndicate did not propose to build on the site as all letters seemed to indicate that they intended doing so. Messrs. Raven and Basto wrote to defendants asking if they required the plans to be proceeded with, but no written reply was received by plaintiffs. To that the defence might attach some importance, but if they had no intention of building, why was no written reply received?

PLAN APPROVED.

As a matter of fact, a telephone communication was received by Cheng from Wo to the effect that plaintiffs were to proceed with the preparation of the plans for 78 houses, and that the other houses on the irregular lot would not be required until a later date. That communication was passed on to Mr. Raven. On September 2nd, Cheng saw Wo with a rough plan of two houses which the latter approved with a minor alteration and ordered a plan for a third type of house which was approved on September 3rd. He then gave instructions for the completion of the plans as soon as possible.

Chau, on September 4th, saw the plans in plaintiffs' office and approved of them, and on 26th, September, Wo Lai-tin signed the notice to the Building Authority of intention to proceed with the site development. On October 13th, a letter was written to Mr. Wo enclosing two further schedule notices, one to commence demolition and the other to commence building, which were signed. Mr. Potter mentioned that a letter was received on November 3rd from Messrs. Lyson and Hall, who were then acting for defendants, stating that the two forms when signed by Wo were partially blank and that he (Wo) was under the impression that one of them was for house lay-out plan. It would be given in evidence that both forms were filled out before being sent to Wo. Another point of note was that in the covering letter sent with the schedules, the notices were described. The demolition notice was sent in at once and permission received from the P.W.D. to proceed.

SERVICES TERMINATED.

On October 21st, a letter was received by plaintiffs from defendants dispensing with the services of plaintiffs as from that date. A reply was sent the following day to the effect that as far as plaintiffs were concerned, the work was entirely completed and that they would send their account when made up. The account was duly sent and was followed by a visit of several members of the syndicate to plaintiffs' office to suggest a reduction of fees, if that was agreed to, the reinstatement of plaintiffs as architects.

Payment of the account was demanded, and on October 27th a further letter was received from defendants stating they were prepared to re-instate plaintiffs on condition that the account as rendered be cancelled and a fresh estimate given for all professional services already rendered. The letter added:—"We take this opportunity of reminding you that we have no intention of building houses on this site ourselves."

DAY BY DAY NEWS IN BRIEF

A GREAT LIBRARY IS AN AWFUL PLACE. THERE ARE INTERRED ALL THE REMAINS OF MEN SINCE THE FLOOD.—Bidwer Lytton.

"A Local Nazi."—We do not think any good purpose would be served by publishing your article.

Mr. M. A. da Silva has been admitted a partner by Mr. J. M. D'Almeida Remedios, and the firm's name will in future be Messrs. D'Almeida Remedios and Silva.

A small outbreak of fire on the roof of 319, Main Street, Shaukiwan West, which broke out at 11.30 last night, was extinguished by the inmates, very little damage being caused.

A Chinese woman was injured yesterday at Shaukiwan "through endeavouring to alight from a moving tram. In the fall she received serious injuries to her head and body, and was taken to hospital."

A 7-year-old European lad, Gordon Becker, living with his parents in Wing Lok Buildings, Kowloon, is reported to have been bitten by a dog in the left arm yesterday, and to have gone to the Kowloon Hospital for treatment.

ZBW's broadcast of the Varsity Boat Race on Saturday night was a great success. The running commentary came through very clearly, except for occasional fading, and even the cheers of the crowds witnessing the race could be distinctly heard.

The many friends of Miss Dorothea Bewley, niece of Mr. and Mrs. Allan Cameron, who was recently visiting Hongkong, will be interested to learn of her marriage to Lieut. W. F. Haselfoot, R. N., which took place at Alverstoke, England, on 18th March.

It is interesting to note that the Empress of Japan, the largest and fastest liner on the Pacific, again lowered her record between Honolulu and Victoria last month by 7 hours and 47 minutes, making a record crossing in 4 days, 8 hours and 3 minutes.

The British Weekly writes:—"The Bellingham Church in erecting a hall to the memory of the late Rev. F. C. Young, who died in Hongkong in 1930, having been previously minister of the Bellingham Church. The foundation stone of the new hall is to be laid on February 25."

An official police report issued at Headquarters this morning confirms the report elsewhere in this issue that in the course of an encounter between a Customs launch, the Kwan Lai, and a suspect junk on Saturday morning outside the harbour, a 3-year-old girl on the junk was killed by a shot fired from the Customs cruiser.

Some weeks ago the Chinese Maritime Customs notified that from August 1 all goods imported into China must be marked in Chinese characters with the name of the country of original manufacture. The Hongkong General Chamber of Commerce learns from a trustworthy source that it is proposed to modify this regulation. Marks in either English, French or Chinese will be accepted.

RECENT CAPTURE OF BISHOP

BANDITRY RIFE IN NORTH

Foochow, Mar. 23. News has just come to hand of the capture by bandits of Bishop Ding Ing-ong (Ch'en Yung-en), Assistant Bishop in the Anglican Church in Fukien. He left Foochow only a few days ago and travelled by steamer to Ningta. Thence he went inland to the Shanyang district with the purpose of conducting Confirmation services, and it must have been while approaching Shanyang that he was captured on Saturday, 25th March. All his friends will hope for his speedy release. The incident again shows up the utter futility of the Government authorities in many parts of the Province and their failure to secure peace and order for the people. Banditry is still too rife in many places. Bishop Ding has had many narrow escapes before, but this is the first time he has actually fallen into the hands of bandits.

The Literacy Campaign, of which I wrote recently, is still being pushed on in Foochow, and it is hoped to start a number of schools for the illiterate early in April. But many difficulties have to be overcome, and it will require considerable determination to attain the aim that has been set, of teaching all illiterates under twenty-five years of age to read before the summer.—Our Own Correspondent.

The Hongkong Volunteer Defence Corps is to be inspected by the G.O.C. on Murray Parade Ground at 6 p.m. on 11th instant.

On October 28th, Messrs. Hastings wrote rejecting the compromise, and on November 4th the action was started. The whole argument centred round whether the plans were ordered or not. The case is proceeding.

REMINDER TO SOLICITORS

SHOULDN'T PRACTISE OVER PHONE

Confusion regarding the names of solicitors appearing for the defence was experienced by Mr. Butters at the Kowloon Magistracy this morning in the case in which a man named Kwok Lun was charged with possession of a number of old swords and daggers. A quantity of literature was also alleged to have been seized.

At the last hearing, Mr. C. Y. Kwan appeared in Court, and the case was remanded for one week for inquiries. The hearing was then fixed for Wednesday afternoon.

When the case was called this morning, Inspector Smith said a solicitor from Messrs. Deacons had rung him up just a few minutes before.

His Warship:—Who did you say?

Inspector Smith:—Messrs. Deacons, your Warship.

His Warship:—But I have Mr. Kwan in my notes.

Inspector Smith:—Deacons got in touch with me.

His Warship:—Solicitors should appear in Court for their cases and not practise over the telephone. It often results in confusion.

The hearing was adjourned until Wednesday at 2.15 p.m.

the results of the trial.

"Evidently these gentlemen are most of all afraid of publicity in this case, which is a delicate one for them. They are therefore employing all possible means to secure an exemption of British subjects from Soviet jurisdiction regardless of available data pointing to a crime, regardless of proofs, and regardless even of the depositions of the accused."

"The Soviet Union," Pravda continues, "is an independent country and all residing within its borders, irrespective of their state citizenship, are responsible before its laws. The trial of the wreckers will take place and nothing the British diaphanous press may do will spare them this annoyance."

"CIVILISED METHODS."

Answering that section of the British press which in writing of the Moscow case has assumed the mantle of concern for "civilization" and "civilized methods," Pravda asks: "What laws and which civilization were followed by the British authorities, and particularly by Captain Reginald T. Jones, in the shooting of 26 Baku Bolsheviks on the territory of the Soviet Republic, without even the semblance of a trial of investigation, on September 20, 1917? Who are these scribblers to speak of humanity and justice now and to cast doubt on the fairness of Soviet judicial organs, when they have in their record the crime of Captain Jones which they justified."—Reuter and Tass.

DESTRUCTION OF IDOLS

RECENT KWANGSI INCIDENT

Wuchow, Mar. 31. Considerable excitement was caused in the city of Peng Naam recently when the authorities confiscated a temple and destroyed the idols.

One of the largest idols in the city, known as "The Old Man of the Street," was destroyed. In the immediate vicinity of the temple, the people were so frightened by this sacrilegious act of the officials that they fled from the neighbourhood, and have made their homes in new quarters of the city. The idol was considered to have exceptional power by the people of Peng Naam.

The temple is now to be used as a public school for the poorer classes. No tuition is to be charged, the funds necessary for the management of the school being subscribed by the general public. This is a new step in the public school systems of inland China, and the officials are to be commended for their far-sightedness and their interest in the education of the vast multitudes who otherwise are neglected.—Our Own Correspondent.

SOLDIER SENT TO GAOL

ON THREE THEFT CHARGES

Private John Mason, of the South Wales Borderers, was sentenced to twelve weeks' hard labour by Mr. Schofield at the Central Police Court this morning, on charges relating to the theft of a silver cup from Private Edwin Jones, a quantity of clothing from Private Goodman, orderly of the lecture hall, Victoria Barracks, and stealing a gold wrist watch and a leather suitcase from Mr. S. M. Fernandez, 390 Hennessy Road, Wanchai, between January 18 and April 1.

Defendant, when asked by his Worship if he had anything to say, stated he was giving 7s. 6d. a week to his girl, and twice his application to get on to the Home establishment had been refused by the Commanding Officer. He was receiving 11d. per day.

Detective-Sergeant Fitches said the cup was won by Pte. Jones at the Borderers' sports last Friday. It was placed in a locker in the barracks, next to defendant's locker. On Saturday, while Private Jones was away, someone stole the trophy. On returning, he discovered the loss, but before reporting to the Sergeant in charge of the Military Police, he made a search and found a pawn ticket underneath the defendant's bed. Accompanied by a Quarter Master Sergeant, the defendant's kit was searched and eight other pawn tickets were discovered. Two of these tickets related to the property which formed the subject of the second and third charges.

Regarding the third charge, Sergeant Fitches said the defendant made the acquaintance of Mr. Fernandez, and dressed in civilian clothes, represented himself as a Canadian, and sought employment. After meeting the defendant, complainant found his house had been entered.

Defendant had pawned Pte. Goodman's clothing for $11, the silver cup for $1 and the wrist watch for $5.50.

Lieut. H. M. Davis—This man has a good military character. That is all I can say for him.

WEEK-END OF SURPRISES

NOTES AND NEWS

AND that's that!

THE Artillery lost their fourth league match on Saturday and left South China sitting pretty waiting to gather the points necessary to win the championship.

At least, this was the general impression when Saturday's results were known, but "came the dawn," bringing with it the biggest sensation of the season, the defeat of South China by Recreio.

It was a bewildered, and completely disillusioned crowd who wended their way from Caroline Hill yesterday afternoon. And there wasn't a single South China supporter who could find a reasonable excuse for his club's reverse.

It was the result of gross carelessness and underestimation of the ability of the Portuguese team.

Of course South China could have scored ten goals. But they didn't. And by the same token they could have stopped Recreio from notching either of the two which gave them the points. But again they didn't.

It was, in fact, the old old story of an assumed superiority, a superiority which was not proven when it came to scoring goals.

THE result does not materially affect South China's championship chances but it does indicate two or three not insignificant points.

THE first is that the Chinese as marksmen are becoming less and less capable; and another that, although still the finest exponent of the scientific game in the Colony, South China are by no means unbeatable.

IT is also worthy of comment that of the three times South China colours have been lowered, two of them have been at the hands of lowly placed clubs. The Hongkong Club were the first to achieve the feat, and now come the Recreio.

EVERY credit is due to the Portuguese for the performance. They may have been territorially outplayed for seven eights of the match, but when it came to the all-important phase of netting goals, they showed their opponents a thing or two.

SANTOS, the Interport trial player was a brilliant attacker, and it was fitting the deciding goal should come from his foot.

THIS is the second time the Recreio have lowered proud colours, their previous feat being against the Lincolns.

CLOSER investigation of the league table now points to a definite challenge being offered the Artillery for second place, and the challenge is coming from the Borderers, who, taking advantage of the R.A. lapse against the Police, crept two points nearer their objective.

THE 24th have dropped only two points more than their rivals, and as the present league leaders have yet another three matches to go, some very decided positional changes may be effected in the table before the season's final whistle is blown.

IT seems that I placed too much faith in the Borderers second string. A fortnight ago they looked a dead certainty for runners-up in the second division, but a trouncing by the Lincolns on Saturday has somewhat altered the complexion of things.

THIS was the "Swobs" last match and the position is that if the Lincolns win their remaining encounter, they can pip their soldier rivals by one point. On the other hand a draw will be useless to them, as the Borderers have much the superior goal average.

GIVING about the poorest display of the season, the Artillery lost heavily to the Police. They seemed like fish out of water minus the services of Wood and Moore in the forward line, and the complete disability of any of the

ARTILLERY SUFFER YET ANOTHER REVERSE

FORWARDS DISORGANISED AGAINST POLICE

NAVY HELD BY THE CLUB

BY "VERITAS"

attackers to make an impression on the Police defence played an important part of the result.

MEDIOCRITY hardly describes the standard of football served up by the teams. The Police won because they deserved to, but as a criterion of first division football, the game was scarcely complimentary.

ONE begins to wonder whether the Philippines tour made by St. Joseph's was as beneficial as would be desired. Since their return there has not only been a noticeable falling off in the type of football they play, but the difficulty of team raising has become an acute problem.

A. V. Gosano has not made a single appearance in the eleven since its return to the Colony, and on Saturday, not only he, but his brother, together with Costa and other regular members, were missing from the team.

THE result was the inclusion of three Recreio players, who came in at the very last minute—in fact fifteen minutes after the scheduled time for kick-off—to make the side up to ten in numbers.

THE Athletic, shall we say strengthened by the inclusion of some second eleven players, took full advantage of this, and won the first match they have played for two months.

THE most praiseworthy performance of the day came from the Club, who, without Roger in goal, Andy Duncan at left half, and Williams at inside right, held the powerful Navy to a division of spoils.

THE Club line-up was extremely experimental, but distinctly successful. Manning Ralton and Martin defended soundly, and Syd Strange played magnificently at centre-half. George. Punccheon, for years one of the mainstays of the Club reserves, came in to fill a niche at left half, and the forwards line, boasting of Dominy on the right wing, E. Strange at centre-forward (obviously his real place) and Desmond Hynes, former centre-half and left back, at inside left, was one of the most energetic the Club have fielded this year.

WEEK-END GAMES DESCRIBED

By "Bully-Off"

The Incogitos continue to forge ahead in the Mamak tournament and on Saturday scored a convincing victory over the Phoenix, netting nine times with only two replies. The game was played on the Radio ground at Caroline Hill and the Incogs, forwards ran riot. At the outset it looked as though the Incogs would have an uphill fight for the points at the score in the early stages stood at 1-1. The Incogs, however, improved and at the interval led by seven goals to two. They found the net twice in the second half.

Scorers for the Incogs were J. J. Pinto (3), Xavier (3), T. C. Reed (2) and C. Barros.

RUNNERS-UP HELD.

The Club de Recreio, who have this season wrested the Southern Runners-up Cup from St. Andrew's, were held to a goalless draw in the final match of the Caer Clark Cup competition on Saturday by the Y.M.C.A. Ladies. Contrary to expectation the "Y" had the better of the game territorially and were unfortunate in not netting on several occasions in the second half. The score, however, was a fair indication of the run of play. It was not until the last few minutes of the second half that the Recreio found their form and then they pierced the "Y" defence but failed to register after A. Alves had cut through on her own and hit the upright.

HOME RUGGER.

Scotland Annex the Championship.

IRELAND DEFEATED.

London, Apr. 1. In fine weather before 40,000 spectators, Scotland won the International Rugby Championship by defeating Ireland at Dublin by eight points to six.

The match was fought out in a hard and determined manner though there was nothing brilliant in the play throughout. The best piece of combined play among the backs occurred in the first minute when Cooke, in possession of the ball, broke through and passed to Lightfoot, who transferred it for Crowe to score an unconverted try for Ireland.

Before the interval, however, Scotland took the lead as a result of a beautiful drop-goal scored by Jackson (formerly of Shanghai) from a scrum.

At half-time, the score was 4/3 in favour of Scotland. Ireland went ahead again soon after the resumption when Murray pierced the Scottish defence to score a try which was again unconverted. Ten minutes before time, Lind dropped a goal to give Scotland the victory by eight points to six.—Reuter.

TO MEET HOCKEY CHAMPIONS

CAER CLARK CUP "REST" SELECTED.

THE following have been selected to represent the Rest eleven against the H. K. Ladies, Champions of the Caer Clark Cup, at King's Park on Saturday, at 4 p.m. B. Almada (Recreio) C. Osmond (Recreio) A. Fowler (Y.M.C.A.) E. Xavier (Recreio) E. M. Beavis (C.B.A.) M. L. W. Bryson (St. Andrew's) P. E. Gittins (St. Andrew's) M. Mason (Y.M.C.A.) M. Woolley (St. Andrew's) S. Dalziel (Y.M.C.A.) M. Remedios (Recreio)

QUITE A GOOD TEAM

By "Sticks"

E. M. Beavis, the brilliant centre-half who has been a tower of strength in the C.B.A. Ladies defence, and who possesses much stamina, has gained official recognition. As the sole representative of the C.B.A., she has been selected to play at centre-half for the Rest of the League eleven against the Hongkong Ladies, Champions of the Caer Clark Cup, on Saturday at King's Park.

In the Telegraph Probable XI, A. Fowler, of the Y. Ladies, was suggested as left half-back, and the selectors have allotted her this position. In her displays in the trials, as in most of the other games, A. Fowler has shown a definite tendency to infringe the rule against "sticks," and is prone to take the risk of too many first-timers. However, we can rest assured that she will have all the support she needs in C. Osmond, of the Recreio, and no better choice could have been made for the position of right back.

M. L. W. Bryson, of the Saints, has given brilliant displays in the trials, and she had been entrusted the position of left half-back, and she will probably be marking M. Alum-Jones with H. Knall on the right flank. Miss Beavis is at centre and the right half position will be filled by E. Xavier, of the Recreio, who has played consistently well throughout the season. She fully deserves a place. On the whole, I can safely say that the half-back line is the strongest possible and will give the Hongkong forwards something to think about.

AN APT LEADER.

No better choice of a leader could have been made than M. Woolley, the clever Saints centre-forward, who has led the Rest eleven for the past two years. Of the six goals scored by her side in the three trial matches, she has netted all. In yesterday's trial game Miss Woolley scored three, to register the "hat-trick."

The biggest surprise of the trial, prize is the dropping of A. Alves (Recreio) the cleverest inside-left of the Kovkon teams. I cannot see why she has not been given the position. Her place is being filled by S. Dalziel, of the Y. Ladies, who, true enough, played a brilliant game at centre-forward on Saturday against the Recreio. It appears this one display gained her recognition in the team.

STRONGER ATTACK POSSIBLE.

O. Brown, also of the Y. Ladies, has been dropped from the left wing, as she has been found to have little control of the ball, although there is no denying she is the fastest wing runner. M. Remedios (Recreio) has been chosen and she should render a good account of herself. Had there not been such a dearth of right wings, P. Gittins, of the Saints, would most probably fill the position. The forward line, I state definitely, could be improved.

B. Almada, who has been given the position of goalkeeper, is a safe player and keeps a cool head. The choice is a wise one.

INCOGS CREEPING UP

Outstanding on the field was S. Dalziel, the Y. M. centre-forward while the pick of the Recreo was E. Xavier who played a great game at right half and her display further enhanced her claims to inclusion in the Rest side against the competition champions, the Hongkong Ladies. Other prominent players were C. Oswald and M. Busto, in the Recreo defence.

FRIENDLIES.

The Hongkong Ladies, holders of the Gair Clark Cup, drew with the St. Andrew's Ladies in a friendly encounter at Shokunpoo each side scoring once. St. Andrew's opened the scoring through M. Woolley while Mrs. P. M. Harrop netted the equaliser soon afterwards.

The "Y.M.C.A." "A" were defeated by two goals to one at the hands of the Dragons ("B" Coy. S.W.B.) at King's Park on Saturday. The game was fast and saw the Dragons constantly on the offensive. They opened the scoring through Pte George but before the interval G. Fowler equalised. Following a fine solo effort in the second half George again scored giving the Dragons a win.

RADIO'S CLOSE CALL.

The Naval Lower Deck XI were opposed to the Radio in a friendly game during the week-end and were beaten by the narrow margin of five goals to four. The Navy opened the scoring through Mercer but G. Singh equalised soon after the re-bully. Before the interval the Navy found the net on two occasions through McCrae for a lead of 3-1. On resumption McCrae completed his "hat-trick" before the Indians improved their game and reduced the sailors' advantage to 4-3, the scores being G. Singh and Awtar Singh. Navy were awarded six corners in quick succession but failed to take advantage of them and before the end the Radio scored two more goals to give them an odd goal win.

Outstanding were Awtar and G. Singh for the Radio, and Barsby and Reid for the Navy side.

The Portuguese community held a reception at the Club Lusitano on Saturday night in honour of H. E. the Governor of Macao (Lt. Col. A. Bernardes de Miranda) on the occasion of his brief official visit to Hongkong prior to departure on business. The Governor of Macao was accompanied by Lt. Col. de Miranda to invest Sir Robert Ho Tung with the Grand Officer'ship of the Military Order of Christ, in recognition of his services to Portuguese interests in the Far East. The distinction was the more notable in view of the fact that Sir Robert is the first Chinese to be thus honoured.

Lt. Col. Bernardes de Miranda was accompanied by his daughter, Senhorina Marie Nazare de Miranda, and A. D. C., Captain Cruz Ribeiro, and arrived at the Club under the guidance of the Acting Consul-General for Portugal, Mr. C. A. da Rosa, who was accompanied by Mrs. da Rosa. They were received at the entrance by members of the Committee of the Club Lusitano and representatives of the three other Portuguese organizations in Hongkong. They were then escorted upstairs into the magnificent Hall de Camoens, which was tastefully decorated for the occasion.

In the distinguished gathering already assembled there were Sir Robert and Lady Ho Tung, Col. L. G. Bird, Captain S. Jarvis and Officers of the Portuguese Company of the Hongkong Volunteer Defence Corps; Hon. Sir Shouson Chow, Hon. Mr. R. H. Kotewall, Hon. Mr. S. W. T'sp, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. C. Basto, Mr. and Mrs. B. Basto, Mr. and Mrs. Antonio Basto, Dr. Graca Ozorio, Dr. and Mrs. Bernardo de Souza, Mr. and Mrs. A. F. B. Silva Netto, Lieutenants V. Correia and Oliveira Soares; M. R. Soulanges Teissier, Consul for France; Mr. M. J. Quist, Consul-General for the Netherlands; Mr. Wong Kwong-tin, Mr. Leo D'Almada e Castro, Jr., Mr. C. Y. Kwan, Mrs. Horace Lo, Mr. J. C. Guterres and other members of the Portuguese Community.

By a happy coincidence, H. E. Ouang Cheung-chang, Chinese Minister to Lisbon, and a close friend of Sir Robert Ho Tung, was passing through the Colony on his return to China, and was present at the reception and investiture which followed. Hon. Mr. Lo Huen-chung, a member of the Macao Legislative Council, and Mr. Fan Kit-pang, Chairman of the Macao Chinese General Chamber of Commerce were visitors from Macao noticed in the gathering of about 300 people.

Consul General's Welcome.
In his capacity of Acting Consul General, Mr. C. A. da Rosa extended a warm welcome to His Excellency the Governor of Macao on behalf of the four Portuguese organizations in Hongkong, the nature and functions of which he proceeded to define as follows: the Club Lusitano, the oldest Portuguese national establishment in the Far East; the Club de Recreio, a recreative centre for the youth of Macao; the Associação Portuguesa de Socorros Mutuos, a benevolent Association of the Portuguese community; and the Liga Portuguesa, a national institution which by its initiative and zeal has proved its value and merit in national interests. All these Associations, he said, offered most cordial good wishes and greetings of welcome to the Governor of Macao and the representative of Portugal.

The toasts the Consul General proposed, for Portugal, Macao and H. E. the Governor, were responded to with loud cheers.

Governor's Reply.
H. E. the Governor of Macao, in his reply, thanked the Portuguese Community for the honour accorded him by the reception. He said that their Home Government well knew that in this British Colony of Hongkong there were Portuguese who formed a community with a loyal regard for the place in which

LESSON SERMON.

FIRST CHURCH OF CHRIST, "SCIENTIST," HONGKONG

"Unreality" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, yesterday. The Golden Text was: "Thus saith the Lord, What iniquity have your fathers found in me, that they are gone far from me, and have walked after vanity, and are become vain?" (Jer. 2:5).

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "In the beginning was the Word, and the Word was with God, and the Word was God. The same was in the beginning with God. All things were made by him; and without him was not any thing made that was made." (John 1:1-3).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "In the Gospel of John, it is declared that all things were made through the Word of God, 'and without Him (the logos, or word) was not anything made that was made.' Everything good or worthy, God made. Whatever is valueless or baneful, He did not make, hence its unreality." (P. 625).

Continuing, His Excellency said that Macao also well knew the good work being carried on by the Liga Portuguesa. Its national point of view, its services rendered to the Portuguese Consulate and to the Colony of Macao, and its commercial and national propaganda deserved the moral and material support of the Lisbon Government. Recognition of its worth had been forthcoming, he said, in the form of a grant of $1,200 from the Macao Government.

SIR ROBERT HONOURED.

Decorated by Governor With Ancient Order of Christ.

An interesting ceremony followed the reception, when Sir Robert Ho Tung had conferred on him the Grande Oficial de Ordem Militar de Cristo.

The distinguished recipient, wearing other Orders already conferred by the Government of China and foreign Governments, in advancing to receive the decoration from the hands of H. E. the Governor of Macao, was supported by two Commandadores of the Order, Mr. C. A. da Rosa and Mr. B. Basto.

In presenting the recipient to His Excellency, Mr. Roza said that Sir Robert Ho Tung, whose qualities were well-known, had received high honours from other Governments as well as his own. His now being similarly honoured by the Portuguese Government was received with the greatest satisfaction by members of the Portuguese Community here.

Continuing, Mr. Roza said that His Excellency had kindly consented to grant a request which he had made and to avail himself of the opportunity to invest Sir Robert with the Order in the name of the Home Government.

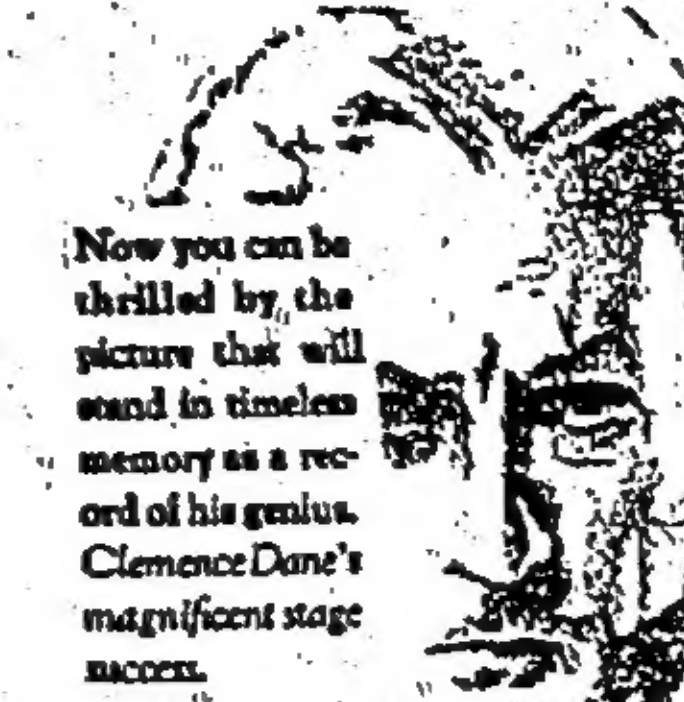

The Order was pinned on amidst great applause, and Sir Robert and Lady Ho Tung received the warm congratulations of the gathering.

Dancing followed, and supper was served at 1 a.m.

Official Changes.
It was stated that His Excellency the Governor of Macao is sailing for Portugal by the M. M. Chenoneaux, leaving here on the 11th instant, for an important conference at Lisbon with other Governors of Portuguese colonies and possessions.

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. da Rosa are also leaving this month on the S.S. Conte Rosso for Acres, and during Mr. Roza's absence, the duties of Consul General will be discharged by Mr. Pedro Botelho pending the arrival of the new Portuguese Consul General, Senhor Brazil Rodrigues, who has been transferred from Rio de Janeiro.

for a long while. She snapped out the light and then lay still and wide awake. She was thinking of Dick, no longer the attentive, pleading sweetheart but a pal, a friend. He had talked to her exactly as he might have to any of a dozen girls. Asked about her work and showed friendly interest. Now that Dick was apparently out of reach he seemed much more attractive.

Was it possible that she could be falling in love with him? With Dick? Was it possible that she had been mistaken in her devotion to Jerry?

She arrived at Henri's promptly next morning. The day moved much as the one before it except that it was easier because she knew what to expect. True to her word, Dorothy Trevor arrived in the afternoon and ordered several frocks. She must have said something to Henri about Sheila because he drew Sheila aside just before the end of the day and said quietly, "This once I shall close my eyes to the fact that last night I saw you drive away with Miss Trevor. Oh, yes, I saw you! See that you don't do it again, however!"

JEWELLER'S SHOP

A large haul of jewellery and watches, stated by the proprietors to be worth over $3,000, was secured by burglars in a raid they made during the weekend on the branch store of the Salon de Modes at No. 7, Hankow Road, Kowloon.

The latest robbery like its predecessors, was extremely daring, the store being one situated in a quite open locality directly opposite the Kowloon Hotel. The robbers were undeterred by the lights left burning in the store and by the uncurtained windows.

SELECTIVE TASTE.

An inch-thick bar, one of six protecting a window was sawn through and gave access from a side lane for a small-sized individual. Thereafter it was a comparatively simple matter to break into the front room, the store itself, and in which the main stock comprising jewellery and watches, were kept.

MAN STABBED WITH KNIFE

REPORTED QUARREL
OVER MONEY

Shortly after nine o'clock this morning, the police were called to
No. 10 High Street, on the slopes
at West Point below the University, where they took charge of a man apparently seriously wounded by knife cuts, and removed him to hospital.

A preliminary report of an armed robbery attended by the wounding of a victim was discounted by subsequent investigations, which at this stage appear to show that the affair was connected with a dispute over money.

The wounded man is a foki employed by a Chinese firm occupying the two floors of the building, and the man who is alleged to have attacked him with a chopper and to have disappeared after the incident is a much younger who is said to be "still going to glars, who must have been held up for a considerable time in sawing it through.

The stolen goods were not insured. A check is being taken to ascertain if other goods are miss-

It is learned that two of the stolen watches were traced to a pawnshop this morning by C.I.D. investigators.
